Water disputes: Bommai to meet Shekhawat soon

Will take a delegation of state MPs, all-party legislators to Delhi to exert pressure, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE state government will take up issues concerning interstate water disputes with Union Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat soon to get clearances for projects, including Mekedatu balancing reservoir, Mahadayi and phase-3 of Upper Krishna Project(UKP), said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai here on Friday.

Setting the process in motion immediately, Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol will meet Shekhawat in New Delhi on Monday or Tuesday and brief him about the status of projects. Soon after, Bommai too will call on the Union minister.

After a two-hour, marathon all-party meeting, in which Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah and Bandeppa Kashempur of JDS too took part at Vidhana Soudha, Bommai said that a delegation of Karnataka MPs, including former prime minister HD Deve Gowda, will be taken to New Delhi to impress upon Shekhawat.

"I will meet the Union minister soon after the session and share details of the meeting with opposition leaders. If our attempts prove futile, I may lead an all-party delegation to the minister to exert pressure," he said.

Though the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) has held five to six meetings, nothing fruitful has come out. "The state government will try to get another meeting fixed to get environmental clearances and nod for the detailed project report for Mekedatu," he said. CONTINUED ON: P4

Pressure from allies for Imran

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

WITH Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan struggling to save his government after 24 dissident lawmakers from his own party decided to vote against him in a no-trust motion in Parliament later this month, two of his allies suggested a 'minus-Imran Khan' formula to resolve the crisis.

Parallelly, Imran's loyalists stormed the Sindh House where the dissident lawmakers had taken sanctuary since Sindh is under the opposition Pakistan Peoples Party's control. But other reports suggested that by then the rebels had bolted.

Azad, Sonia discuss patch-up

THE Congress leadership's outreach to the dissidents continued on Friday with interim party president Sonia Gandhi meeting Ghulam Nabi Azad who shared his ideas on organisational revamp in the wake of the recent electoral drubbing in five states.

"The meeting was good and cordial. Discussions centred on how to prepare unitedly for the next assembly elections," Azad, a prominent member of the G-23 rebels, told the media after the meeting.

> Ghulam Nabi Azad, Congress G-23 leader

In response to a specific query, Azad categorically said no one had asked Sonia to step down from the party's post. All members of the Congress Working Committee decided unanimously that she should continue as president. "We just had some suggestions that were shared," he said. Just a few days ago, another prominent G-23 member Kapil Sibal had demanded that the Gandhi family voluntarily step aside and give someone else a chance to lead the party. Even on Wednesday when the G-23 had a get together that was attended by 18 rebels, there was buzz that Sonia had reached out to Azad.

A highly placed party source said that the meeting of Azad with Sonia was positive. "Madam took forward the possibility of reconciliation during talks with with Azad. It was a positive development," the source said, adding almost all prominent issues articulated by the G-23 were discussed.

Sources also claimed the dissidents don't have a grudge against Sonia; they only want organisational elections within the party. On Thursday, Rahul Gandhi had met former Haryana CM Bhupinder Singh Hooda as part of the outreach.

Biden's warning to Xi against aiding invasion

Joe Biden

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

US President Joe Biden, in his first one-on-one with his Chinese counterpart Xi Jinping since November, warned him about the perils of siding with Russia in its ongoing invasion of Ukraine by providing military aid and equipment.

China's official Xinhua News Agency glossed over the warning and quoted Xi as saying, "Conflict and confrontation are not in the interests of anyone" and that "state-to-state relations cannot go to the stage of military hostilities". But a White House readout of the talks said Biden "described the implications and consequences if China provides material support to Russia as it conducts brutal attacks against Ukrainian cities and civilians". He also underscored his support for a diplomatic resolution to the crisis.

As for Xi, the state-controlled media quoted him as saying that China and the United States should "shoulder international responsibilities", adding "peace and security are the most valued treasures of the international community."

The White House said Biden detailed the efforts by the West to respond to the unprovoked invasion of Ukraine, including by imposing cost on Russia.

Children stressed, have lost basic skills: Survey

Lockdown effect: Children's education worry parents of lower strata

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A SURVEY on the state of children's education in Karnataka, Telangana and Tamil Nadu has found that children are under stress and have lost basic skills like the ability to read and write, post pandemic lockdowns.

The report, titled 'Cries of Anguish', was released by the National Coalition on the Education Emergency (NCEE).

The survey, conducted in two Karnataka districts, had a sample size of 102 families, with a total of 176 children surveyed from disadvantaged backgrounds in particular, in rural and urban areas. The study found that a majority of parents was concerned about their children's skills in reading and writing, and reported that they had either stayed the same or declined. Interestingly, parents of 80 per cent of government school students reported the issue, compared to 59 per cent from private schools in Karnataka.

Parents reported that their children had displayed a lack of routine, discipline, motivation and an interest in education, as well as the inability to focus. Further, they reported that due to exposure to online classes and lockdowns, they were dealing with a high level of mental stress and loneliness, and an addiction to technology. According to the report, another cause for this might have been the lack of supervision of children, as 81 per cent took up labour or agricultural jobs that required them to be away from home.

Parents noted the following changes: lack of routine and discipline; inability to focus; lack of motivation and interest in education; addiction to mobile phone, games and TV; changes in eating habits; mental stress and loneliness. Several parents noted that young children, in particular, had lost even the daily routine of eating and hygiene. Many of these parents are working outside the home and have nobody to supervise children at home.

According to the survey, a majority of parents were in favour of offline classes, due to stress on parents and children. They reported that a core reason for this was also a lack of online classes or the way in which they were conducted. Many children faced difficulty in paying attention to lessons, especially since those with access used only phones and faced unstable internet connections.

K'taka first to launch Learning Recovery programme

BENGALURU: Primary and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh launched the Learning Recovery programme in light of the adverse effects Covid-19 has had on children, at RV Teachers' College on Friday. The launch comes just a month and a half after the Central government instructed all states to implement a similar programme for the coming academic year. Nagesh said that the state is the first so far to implement the programme. "Covid-19 has had a huge impact on the education sector. Lack of classes is a problem for development of the child, and many educational institutions have found it challenging," he said on Friday. He pointed out that lack of writing done as part of online classes have negatively impacted not only students but also educators. He said the programme was being brought up because emphasis on quality education should go hand-in-hand with the development of infrastructure in schools. He appealed to all district education officers to recognise that children are lagging behind in terms of education, and asked that adequate training be given to teachers.

City can now treat all its sewage

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

WITH an aggressive thrust over the last decade for proper disposal and reuse of sewage, Bengaluru has finally reached a stage where it has the potential to treat all the waste generated by its residents. The recent operationalisation of a Sewage Treatment Plant (STP) at Rajarajeshwari Nagar, the second here, has helped the city attain this landmark.

The new Vrishabhavathi Valley Plant, adjacent to the Metro station, can treat up to 150 Million Litres Per Day (MLD) of sewage. The waste generated reaches the STP by gravity. It begins at Sankey Tank and then flows via Malleswaram, Okalipuram, Deepanjali Nagar, Nayandahalli, Hosakerahalli and Banashankari.

The attractive landscaping all around the vast campus of this secondary treatment plant is a sight for sore eyes. It has been built at a cost of Rs 470 crore under the Mega City Revolving Fund for which the Centre, State and the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board contribute.

BWSSB Executive Engineer Rahul Priyadarshi explained that all the STPs together have the capacity to treat 1,523 MLD of sewage. "The sewage generated daily in Bengaluru is around 1440 MLD. For the first time in the city's history, the ability to completely handle the water we generate has been made possible after this plant started working," he added.

The two plants here can treat up to 330 MLD. The smaller downstream STPs at Mailasandra (75 MLD), Kengeri (60 MLD), Dodbele (60 MLD) and Kempambudhi (1 MLD) have now ensured 526 MLD can be treated per day, Priyadarshi said.

The Vrishabhavathi STP adheres to stringent norms of the National Green Tribunal that are almost on par with that for a tertiary treatment plant, he said.

Two other mega STPS which became operational this year -- at Hebbal and K&C Valley – have played a critical role too. These three major STPs will generate 6-7 MW of power per day.

CLIMATE CHANGE

Colours of summer fade as tabebuia trees vanish

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

DURING summer, most areas would be dry with an azure sky and few or no flowers.

Bengaluru would be different. The tabebuia flowers in bright red, yellow, purple, and pink would dispel the aridness. Unlike every year, the tress which used to create floral carpets on the roads, are dwindling in the CBD area. Those still standing are not blooming much. Environmentalists, tree experts, forest department, and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) officials differ in their opinions regarding the cause.

Some of them state that it is because of increased concretisation. Others pointed out that trees are axed. Ones which have been planted are yet to bloom, some opined. A section of experts said that climate change is one of the reasons that has affected the trees. "Very few of those planted by Britishers have withstood the impact of climate change. Many have died because of age. An analysis of the impact of climate change and seasonal change on the trees is needed. It's a matter of concern but it's also interesting," said a state forest department official.

Noted environmentalist and retired forest department official AN Yellappa Reddy said that the survival of trees is difficult because of a lack of space around them for water to percolate into roots as the surrounding is completely concretised.

Tree expert Vijay Nishanth said that not only are the trees lesser in numbers in the CBD area but they are also blooming less in other parts of the city like Jayanagar which is a natural cycle. A senior BBMP official from the forest cell admitted that many trees had died over the years and were felled because of multiple civic agencies' works. To compensate, BBMP started to undertake plantation drive in areas where civic works have been completed. M Jagadish, joint director, Lalbagh, horticulture department, said that the department has started massive tabebuia plantation in Lalbagh and Cubbon.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Cash and career matters are still on your mind, but do try to put practical issues behind you during the weekend. Life is too short to spend all your time worrying over how you are ever going to pay your way. If you're unsure of a romantic development, you'd better hang on until next week.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Make an early start if you want to get ahead of the pack. Social prospects are still bright and, although you will be giving some thought to worldly matters, you really ought to try and relax. Yet that can only be done if you stick your head in the sand.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It's a favourable weekend for getting financial plans into shape. Forge ahead with all family arrangements and hope for the best: someone may be arranging a pleasant surprise for you. The best way to tackle domestic ructions is to be totally practical and stick to the facts. Try to take partners' minds off their woes.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Why is it that people at home seem determined to disagree with your plans or think up problems to slow you down? Perhaps it's because you failed to consult them when you were dreaming up your current schemes. In that case, you'd better try to persuade them you did it for their own good.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You may keep on the move this weekend, though you could be happier making short journeys rather than long. Push business matters to one side and enjoy your social life free of the cares and concerns which tend to cloud your vision. You may be a little more emotional than usual, but do try to keep your cool.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
A partnership dispute or a delay in communications should clear very soon, if it has not already done so. Turn your back on fantasy and waffle, and concentrate on what you can do of practical value. Plus, you must avoid a financial risk, especially if you're responsible for other people's money.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You could be in for a romantic weekend, especially if you're single. If you're spoken for, cheer up, for there is still plenty of scope for you and your partner to give life an exciting new twist. In love, partners should defer to your superior wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Anything which is set in motion today should have a rewarding outcome. However, there is much that still needs to be explained and you may be labouring under one or two misapprehensions. You're keeping a romantic secret, and a discreet flirtation is now a distinct possibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If you've any spare time, you may wish to devote a little energy to your long-term interests, especially your investments and savings. Most of the indications suggest that ventures entered into now will eventually prove very profitable, but you must think them through very carefully indeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It's a romantic weekend in the broadest sense. Quite aside from the intimate, emotional side of your life, you will be looking at the world through rose-tinted spectacles. Exotic cultures may beckon, but you must love partners for who they are, rather than for who you'd like them to be.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
A restless mood may make it difficult to concentrate, but there will be rewards if you find yourself in unfamiliar surroundings. Social gatherings have much to offer, but only if you are prepared to leap into the unknown, ready for absolutely anything.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Diplomacy is still your best policy if you're trying to hang on to one particular friendship. On the other hand, if you are at the end of your tether, there is no better moment to set yourself free. If a partner is over-stressed don't lose your cool, but offer your support.

Panel on alert, advises sewage surveillance, genome sequencing

With surge in cases in East Asia, state to start strict checks on int'l passengers, restart testing

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru:

IN the wake of an increase in Covid-19 cases in China, South Korea and a few other countries, the Technical Advisory Committee has advised the Karnataka government to up its sewage surveillance, and also ensure compulsory genome sequencing analysis on positive samples of international travellers landing in Karnataka.

It was decided that the state should do strict surveillance of international passengers coming from these countries. The TAC recommended that these passengers be identified at the arrival airport and intimated about those coming to Bengaluru or other domestic airports in Karnataka, like Mangaluru, Belagavi, Mysuru and Hubballi, for strict monitoring of any Covid-19 related symptoms. Strict genome sequencing is to be done on samples that test positive for Covid-19.

TAC also suggested mandatory home quarantine for such travellers, or RT-PCR test reports at airports, depending on the existing facilities.

TAC chairman Sudarshan MK told TNIE, "As the decision on international flight arrivals and surveillance is regulated by the Government of India, independent decisions cannot be taken by states. However, when there is a provision to consider local epidemiological assessment and decide on certain surveillance measures, we can do accordingly. New guidelines regarding testing of international arrivals is awaited. Till such time, as per existing guidelines, strict genomic surveillance is to be done on samples of those testing positive."

Stressing on the importance of strict waste water surveillance, another TAC expert said, "Waste water surveillance can provide an early warning of Covid-19's spread in communities. We have asked BBMP officials and the state health department to ensure this is upped and monitored strictly. It is important to find out the level of infection, as people with SARS-CoV-2 can shed the virus in their faeces, even if they don't have symptoms. This surveillance can capture the presence of any new variant, and also the spread of the infection. By measuring SARS-CoV-2 levels in untreated waste water over time, public health officials can determine if infections are increasing or decreasing in a sewer shed."

GENOME DATA (from Jan 1 to date, in Karnataka)

79.4% Omicron variant

28.1% BA1.1529

68.5% BA.2

Dr K V Thrilok Chandra, Special Commissioner (Health), BBMP, this survey is already being done in BBMP limits, and so far, traces of a new variant have not been found, he said. "We are doing this survey and strictly monitoring sewage samples. So far, there has been no trace of any new variant or sub-lineage. The infection level is also at a low but we have upped vigilance," Chandra said.

Meanwhile, the state health department has also decided to restart testing for Influenza-Like Illness (ILI) and Severe Acute Respiratory Infection (SARI).

"We are monitoring any emerging clusters, testing ILI and SARI cases on a continued basis so that no early warning signals are missed. So far, the countries have identified the surge to be due to sub-lineages of the Omicron variant. For instance, Israel had a recombinant variant of BA.1 and BA.2 of Omicron, and a few countries are reporting BA.2.2 sublineage of Omicron again. However, we cannot ignore anything or take anything for granted," he added.

Live-in partner sets Dalit woman ablaze in E-city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 26-year-old Dalit woman, who was working at a private company, was set ablaze by her live-in partner at Electronics City on March 15 and she died on Thursday. The deceased, Daneshwari A, hailed from Vijayapura and was the daughter of a tahsildar at Sindagi.

Daneshwari came to the city two years ago after completing her graduation at a private college and befriended Shivakumar, who is from Bagalkot.

The two were living together over the last few months and Shivakumar had discussed the prospect of marrying Daneshwari with his parents. But there was resistance she was a Dalit, the police said.

Shivakumar tried to persuade her to end the relationship, but Daneshwari was insisting on marriage. Upset over this, he took her to an isolated place at Kudlu near Electronics City, doused her in petrol, and set her ablaze, the police said.

Passersby found her unconscious and rushed her to a nearby hospital, where she died after fighting for her life for over two days. Shivakumar, who works at a private company, is absconding and the police have launched a manhunt for him.

The victim's mother had passed away a few years ago after suffering from health complications. Daneshwarni's father was refusing to file a police complaint when she was in the hospital. He agreed to do so only after her death, the police said.

The body was handed over to the family after autopsy.

IN DEATH, BELAGAVI MAN GIVES LIFE TO SIX OTHERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 51-year-old man gave a new lease of life to six people in his death. Umesh B Dandagi suffered a serious head injury after an accidental fall. He underwent craniotomy (surgical removal of part of the bone from the skull to expose the brain for surgery) on the same day at KLES Hospital in Belagavi. Dandagi was declared brain dead on March 16, despite all efforts to save his life.

As per organ donation protocol, officials from 'Jeevasar-thakathe', earlier known as ZCCK, initiated the process for organ donation and took written consent from his family members.

The recipients were selected as per the waiting list, and his organs were harvested. Jeevasarthakathe is a government body which oversees cadaver organ donation in Karnataka.

Dandagi's heart was transplanted into a patient at KLES Hospital, and his kidneys were sent to SDM Hospital in Dharwad and Tatwadarsha Hospital in Hubballi through a green corridor. His corneas and skin were donated to the KLE eye bank and skin bank. His liver was airlifted within hours to Bengaluru, from Belagavi airport. To ensure that no time was lost in transportation, Bengaluru Traffic Police created a 'green corridor' from Kempegowda International Airport to Sparsh Hospital, RR Nagar, where the liver was successfully transplanted into a patient.

Additional Commissioner of Police (Traffic), Bengaluru City, BR Ravikanthe Gowda, said they had received a request from Sparsh Hospital for creating traffic-free passage to transport a donated organ which was airlifted from Belagavi.

Congress leader Siddaramaiah urged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to withdraw the cases filed against Congress leaders who took part in the Mekedatu padayatra. Budget to put economy on growth path: CM

Says govt looking at making K'taka a revenue-surplus state again, stresses on strengthening farming community

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday said that the budget, which he presented recently, lays stress on bringing the economy back on track.

Replying to the budget discussion in the Council, Bommai said he had his own fears while preparing the budget as the economic situation in the state was bad due to the Covid-19 pandemic. "The state's economy was not that good for two years. Revenue receipts had come down and I was worried that I may have to shrink the budget size. But, I gave importance to preparing the budget in such a way that it puts the state's economy back on track," the CM said.

He added that luckily, the state's economy recovered in November last year and the third wave of the pandemic did not have much effect. "The collections in GST, excise duty, stamp duty, and non-tax revenues increased, but only motor vehicle tax collection did not see improvement as there was not much sale of vehicles," Bommai noted.

Stressing on the importance of strengthening the farming community, the CM said they are not just producers, but also consumers.

"There is a perception that only the rich contribute to the economy. But the real movers and shakers are at the bottom of the pyramid," he stressed, adding that his budget was growth-oriented and aimed at making Karnataka a revenue-surplus state again.

Congress stages a walkout

During the discussion on the CM's reply, the Congress members asked him not to sell government properties such as NGEF and Mysore Lamps. The CM replied that there is no proposal to sell properties of any public sector unit under the asset monetisation plan. Under the plan, steps will be taken to monetise properties of transport corporations and Escoms, which are reeling under losses.

Bommai also refuted the allegations of the Opposition that several projects announced in the previous budgets were dropped.

"Out of the 352 programmes, 261 are already implemented. As many as 87 projects are in various stages of implementation while only four were dropped," he clarified.

Responding to the demand for dropping the New Pension Scheme and reintroducing the Old Pension Scheme (OPS), Bommai said a decision will be taken after studying the models in states where the OPS was brought back.

Even as the Chief Minister was replying, Opposition leader B K Hariprasad intervened saying that his reply seems to be merely an eye-wash and the Congress MLCs staged a walkout.

Reacting sharply, the Chief Minister said, "I have not even replied to some of their questions and they are walking out. Does the Opposition have any responsibility or seriousness about the development of the state?"

IN THE HOUSE

BSY bats for farmer welfare

Former chief minister B S Yediyurappa batted for distressed farmers who are forced to sell their products at low prices to repay their loans. During a debate in the Assembly, JDS MLA Venkatarao Nadagouda pointed out that the condition of farmers has not improved as they have to bear huge costs for electricity, while their products are not fetching good prices. In reply, Yeddiyurappa agreed that some farmers have been failing to make use of the APMC godowns to stock their produce till they get better prices.

After Gujarat, K'taka too considers including Gita lessons in schools

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TAKING a cue from Gujarat, Karnataka too is contemplating including chapters from the Bhagavad Gita as part of moral science education in school textbooks. Disclosing this, Primary and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh told reporters on Friday that there is a huge demand to include moral science studies in school syllabus in Karnataka.

"It has come to my attention that Gujarat is planning to introduce moral sciences in phases, with the first phase being inclusion of texts and teachings from the Bhagavad Gita," he said, adding that a meeting will be held with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on the possibility of doing likewise in Karnataka.

The minister was responding to a question on whether the Bhagavad Gita will be included in textbooks from the next academic year, similar to the Gujarat model. Nagesh said the inclusion of moral sciences will be considered seriously as cultural values have not been adequately instilled among children in schools.

"If the government decides to go ahead with adding moral science to the syllabus, the content and extent of the study as part of the subject will be discussed with education experts," he said, adding that the content could also include stories from the Ramayana and Mahabharata as well as teachings of Jesus Christ.

> If the government decides to go ahead with adding moral science to the syllabus, the content and extent of the study as part of the subject will be discussed with education experts

> BC Nagesh, Education Minister

The Gujarat government recently announced that the Bhagavad Gita will be included in schools as a way to cultivate an interest in the country's traditions and culture as well as to generate a sense of pride.

Responding to the minister's statement, KPCC president D K Shivakumar said there is no need to glorify religious subjects as they have already been included in textbooks. "It is good to learn about various religions, but this has already been included in textbooks," he told reporters.

Former Chief Minister H D Kumaraswamy, while indirectly opposing the idea, said students want texts on how to lead better lives and a value-based education system.

Speaking after attending a programme to inaugurate the newly constructed Nanjundeshwara temple in T Mayigowdanahalli village of Holenarasipur taluk, he said children learn culture at home, which includes the Bhagavad Gita. He said political parties come up with such proposals only with an eye on votes. The education scenario has changed, and the current education system has a series of lapses, so the focus should not be diverted by raising such issues, he added.

Kumaraswamy also said a section of political leaders are making futile attempts to take political advantage of the hijab issue.

SC yet to hear state plea on mining funds

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

LAW and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy on Friday clarified to the Assembly that the Supreme Court has not yet taken Karnataka's appeal to approve the release of Rs 19,443 crore, meant for the comprehensive environment plan for mining impact zones in Ballari, Tumakuru and Chitradurga districts.

During Question Hour, Ballari BJP MLA G Somashekara Reddy pointed out that since 2010, no grants have been released to the Karnataka Mining Environment Restoration Corporation (KMERC).

Replying to him, Mines and Geology Minister Halappa Achar said, "An Interlocutory Application (IA) was filed, and since May 2020, the government has appealed to the top court, as many as eight times, to hear the case. Our lawyers have also orally appealed twice. On February 16 this year, when the Solicitor General mentioned about the case, the judge said that he will consider setting up of a special bench to hear the state's case and also the IAs submitted by others."Somashekara Reddy then pointed out that in the case of Odisha, the SC had given its approval for the release of funds meant for the restoration and rehabilitation works.

Intervening in the debate, Madhuswamy said the Karnataka government is also keen on getting the funds released to the KMERC, which was incorporated for the purpose under Companies Act 2013 as a Special Purpose Vehicle(SPV) on June 30, 2014. "When Ranjan Gogoi was the CJI, he had disposed of Odisha's case. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, me and Govind Karjol have discussed the issue with our Supreme Court counsel and we hope that it will take up the case for hearing in April", he stated.

If the funds are released, Ballari and Vijayanagara districts together will get the lion's share of Rs 13,378 crore for restoration of places damaged due to mining. Madhuswamy had earlier proposed to the government to construct a super-specialty hospital at Kibbanahalli Cross in his Chikkanayakanahalli Assembly constituency, which was also affected by rampant mining.

Horticulture Dept releases Rs 173 cr for drip irrigation

Horticulture Minister Munirathna Naidu, replying to a question, said the department had received 23,551 applications seeking subsidy for drip irrigation in 2019-20 and 2020-21 and Rs 173 crore was paid to them. Congress MLC K Govindaraju, who sought details of electric buses in Bengaluru city, alleged that the entire process of hiring the buses on contract raises suspicion. In reply, Transport Minister B Sriramulu said there was complete transparency in the process.

Congress seeks revival of Indira Canteens

Opposition leader B K Hariprasad suggested that the government revive Indira Canteens, which cater to the weaker sections of society. But members of the ruling party said the contractors were raising bills showing that food was served to 500 people though only 50-100 people had used the service. Hariprasad asked the government to punish those who indulge in such acts, but restart the programme as it is most needed for the poor and the working class.

Naveen's body to be kept for public viewing

NAVEEN'S brother Harsha said, "From Bengaluru, Naveen's mortal remains will be brought to Chalageri by road and reach here by 11 am. The body will be kept for public viewing and later, the cremation will be conducted."

Naveen (21) was killed at Kharkiv when he stepped out of the metro underground tunnel, where he and his friends were taking shelter, to get food from a supermarket on March 1, 2022. The entire family used to make video calls to Naveen every day and Tuesday was no exception.

Soon after Naveen's friend informed Shekhar that Naveen was dead, the Ministry of External Affairs officials, too, confirmed the news to the family. However, the body could not be shifted immediately because of intense fighting between Russia and Ukraine. Indian diplomatic officials got the body embalmed and kept it in a mortuary in Kharkiv. Later, it was shifted to Warsaw.

On March 13, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had directed authorities to make all possible efforts to bring the body back.

Shekharappa, who worked as an engineer in Abu Dhabi, returned to India some years ago and was working at South India Paper Mills Ltd at Nanjangud. Naveen did his primary and higher primary at St Lawrence School in Ranebennur and later joined his father at Nanjangud. He completed his high school and pre-university in Mysuru.

BATTLEGROUND

APMC polls to be notified, parties ready

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

WITH elections to the Agriculture Produce Co-operative Committees all set to be notified, the stage is set for another poll battle. The tenure of the previous APMCs had ended in February 28, but the government appointed officers as administrators to oversee their activities.

The government also announced reservations with 11 members to be elected by farmers -- one each from horticulture, traders and from Taluk Agriculture Produce Co-operative Societies. The government can nominate three members to each AMPC who can also exercise voting powers.

Although candidates do not fight on party symbols, their identification with political parties has made the elections intriguing in recent years. Local legislators and party leaders have aggressively campaigned to take control of APMCs, which record turnover in crores and enjoy direct contact with farmers.

In all these years, candidates backed by the Congress and JDS have been elected in a majority of the APMCs across the state. The BJP's influence has been limited to a few taluks in Shivamogga, Udupi, Dakshina Kannada districts and other pockets.

The BJP had come under fire for amending the AMPC Act and introducing the Prime Minister Fasal Bima Yojana with both the Centre and the states transferring money directly to the farmers' accounts, crop insurance scheme and a hike in loan coverage. Therefore, the BJP is expected to throw in its hat in the contest while Congress and JDS will lock horns in many APMCs in Old Mysuru Region.

Aware that the elections to the APMCs will also be an indication of which way the farming community votes will swing, as about 33 lakh members will exercise their franchise, many local leaders have been knocking on the doors of legislators and co-operatives for their support.

Farmer leader Kurbur Shanthakumar said the election will not be a prestige battle as the government has weakened the APMCs through an amendment and encouraged private players to operate a parallel system. APMC director A M Yogesh said there are 160 APMCs in the state and the elections will be held since the Covid-19 curbs have been relaxed. He said the district deputy commissioners will fix the reservation.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

CONGRESS leaders, including Opposition leader in the Assembly, Siddaramaiah, KPCC president D K Shivakumar and former minister M B Patil on Friday insisted that since Tamil Nadu has no right to object to the Mekedatu balancing reservoir project, the BJP government should show its will to implement it.

"The government should get the Detailed Project Report approved by the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) and environmental clearance from the ministry concerned. Except these things, there are no legal hurdles for the project", remarked D K Shivakumar after taking part in the all-party meeting chaired by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai.

"Except for its share of 177.25 tmcft of Cauvery river water based on the Supreme Court's verdict of February 12, 2018, Tamil Nadu has no right to object to the projects proposed to be taken up in Karnataka's territory", he claimed. "The Supreme Court has also clarified that drinking water projects cannot be halted," he pointed out.

Siddaramaiah said that the BJP government has failed to get the Upper Krishna Project phase-3 notified in the central gazette. "During 2013, the tribunal, headed by Brijesh Kumar, had given its final award. Even after nine years of the verdict, the gazette notification has not been issued", he pointed out.

"Even for the Mahadayi project, there are no hurdles except for environmental clearance. We have insisted that the CM take a delegation to the Centre to which he agreed," he said.

Setbacks in water rows due to lack of political unity: HDD

HASSAN: JDS patriarch H D Deve Gowda on Friday said Karnataka always faces major setbacks over inter-state water disputes due to lack of unity among state political leaders. Speaking to reporters at T Mayigowdanahalli village in Holenarasipur taluk, the former PM said he had made sincere efforts to resolve the water disputes with Tamil Nadu and other neighbouring states. "The MPs of Tamil Nadu had obstructed me when I tried to reveal the facts over the river water disputes in detail in Parliament," he said.

OPPN SUGGESTIONS

- Take steps to get UKP notified as a national project,

- Get environmental clearance for Mekedatu project
- Legal experts should find easy ways to implement the project, instead of complicating issues

"I have instructed our water resources department secretary to take up the issue seriously and also to get details of proceedings of previous meetings," he said.

On Mahaydayi, Bommai said he is confident that the project will take off soon after environmental clearances are granted. With regards to the Upper Krishna Project, there was a Supreme Court stay in 2011. The tribunal gave its final verdict in 2013, but the Andhra Pradesh and Telangana governments raised objections causing the delay, he said.

Meanwhile, Justices DY Chandrachud from Maharashtra and AS Bopanna from Karnataka recused themselves from the UKP case and the Chief Justice of India will be appealed to appoint the judges. "We are expecting to get permission to notify the project in the gazette after two to three hearings in the case," he added. Bommai said the state government has raised objection to interlinking of Godavari, Krishna, Cauvery and Pennar rivers as the states' share of waters has not been allotted yet. "We will secure our allocation," he added.

KPCC president DK Shivakumar, leader of opposition in the Council BK Hariprasad, former ministers HK Patil and MB Patil, legal expert Mohan Kataraki and officials were present.

DKS, Siddu 'strangulating' Cong in K'taka, says Shobha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Udupi

UNION Minister of State for Agriculture Shobha Karandlaje on Friday said the Congress is being decimated in state after state because of its vote bank politics, and yet party leaders are not up for introspection. ''The party has bitten the dust due to its vote bank politics,'' she told reporters here before heading to Karkala to participate in the Karkala Utsav.

Touching upon a slew of topics, Karandlaje said if the Congress has been rejected by voters and rendered an irrelevant political outfit, the party leaders D K Shivakumar and Siddaramaiah are strangulating it in Karnataka. ''Being a lawyer, Siddaramaiah went to the extent of speaking against the Karnataka High Court verdict on the hijab issue. That shows his mindset,'' she said.

On some students not attending classes after the verdict, she said it is important to follow the law of the land. "Only poor Muslim girls are being made scapegoats by forcing the hijab on them, while those from elite families are allowed to walk out without it," she added.

Setting an example of communal harmony, Hindus and Christians joined Muslims to celebrate the inauguration of a newly-built mosque in Sambavar Vadakarai town situated near Surandai, Tamil Nadu. Cutting across religions, more than 2500 people took part in the event.

US to establish SE Asia's largest consulate in Hyd

Centre will cater to high number of applications in the region

DONITA JOSE @Hyderabad

THE soon-to-open US Consulate office in Hyderabad will be the largest US consular processing post South East Asia both in terms of number of visa windows and in area. The centre being set up in Nanakramguda is likely to be completed by November, 2022 and will open shortly thereafter.

Speaking to Express, David Moyer, Public Diplomacy Officer at US Consulate General office in Hyderabad, said that the centre will be unique as it will comprise 54 visa processing windows as well as multiple new features that were not seen before.

"In terms of number of visa windows and gross square footage, the compound wall of the new consulate office will be the largest US consular processing post in India and South East Asia (SEA). The United States' investment in the new Consulate facility is $297 million. The site consists of 12.2 acres and the chancery building alone is in 17,917 gross square metres," said David Moyer.

The centre has already been one of the largest not just in the country but the world in terms of processing the second highest number of applications, justifying the need for the new large campus. The region sees such a high number of applications owing to H1B and F1 visa applications.

However, even as the building spreads across such a large space, the premises would be of highest sustainable standards. "The new Hyderabad US Consulate office will be certified by the United States Green Building Council (USGBC) at the GOLD level.

A specific system has been put in place for the next five years by the consulate where energy efficiency will be measured and reported to USGBC to determine the level of savings.

BETTER AMENITIES FOR APPLICANTS

The consulate officials further note that the new complex will have better facilities for the applicants on the whole. At the exterior of the new Consulate, there will be covered walkways that pass through a garden reflecting the local geological landscape, officials said. Once inside, the applicants will find a well-appointed and large waiting room. The staffing will also be increased from 150 desks to 255 desks to reduce waiting time for applicants. The consular windows will also increase from 14 to 54.

Tight-rope walk by TN govt for Budget-22

T MURUGANANDHAM @Chennai

AT a time when Tamil Nadu is still reeling under the pangs of the Covid-19 pandemic, Finance Minister Palanivel Thiaga Rajan has done a tight-rope walk withthe available resources in the Budget for 2022-23 unveiled on Friday. He has ensured the flow of adequate funds to social sectors without deviating from theroad to fiscal consolidation.

The minister also gave a clear roadmap ahead by setting a 10-point charter of broad focus areas on which the State has to move in the new financial year. While stopping the downward slide and slashing the revenue deficit substantially (by Rs 7,000 crore) and fiscal deficit from 4.61 per cent to 3.80 per cent in a challenging year after the third wave of the pandemic, the minister did not fail to make a plain-speaking about the year ahead.

"The coming financial year is likely to be challenging and replete with uncertainties. The ongoing war in Ukraine can disrupt the global economic recovery. Global supply disruptions and demand shocks, including those triggered by the war, can adversely impact the State's tax revenue," he said. The projected total outstanding debt of the State government as of March 31, 2023, will be Rs.6,53,348.73 crore.

Men of Kurnool village worship Kamadeva in women's attire on Holi

K MADHU SUDHAKAR @Kurnool

PEOPLE of Santhekudlur village bordering Karnataka, have a tradition of celebrating Holi in a different manner. As part of the tradition, young and married men in the village in the woman's attire visit the local Rati Manmatha temple and offer prayers to Kamadeva. They also offer silk clothes to the presiding deity as per the custom. They celebrated the festival of colours as per the tradition on Friday.

Explaining the strange tradition, Rati Manmatha temple priest Vijaya Kumar said, "It is a strong belief among villagers that Kamadeva will bless the families with happiness and prosperity if the Lord is worshipped by men in the woman's attire on the occasion of Holi." The villagers who settled in nearby towns in Kurnool district and major metros Hyderabad, Bengaluru and Chennai, used to come to their native place Santhekudlur on the occasion of Holi every year to worship Kamadeva. The festival is celebrated for two days. On the first day of the festival, Rathotsavam is held in the temple in the evening, he added.

Jeep with MLA sticker kills newborn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hyderabad

AFTER a speeding Jeep bearing a sticker 'MLA Bodhan' knocked down four persons at Jubilee Hills late on Thursday night, killing a newborn and leaving three women injured, MLA Mohammed Shakil Aamir released a video informing that the vehicle is owned by his cousin Mirza and his cousin's family members were in the vehicle at the time of the incident. While it is suspected that the driver of the vehicle was in a drunken condition at the time of the incident, police said that they are yet to ascertain that.

Not availability of CCTV cameras at the spot has also made the investigation difficult, as it was not clear on how the incident occurred. Though primary inquiries revealed that there were three people in the vehicle including the driver, as the vehicle had tinted glasses, the identity of the driver is becoming hard to be established.

" We are verifying private cameras near the spot. But nothing concrete has come up so far. However, the vehicle was spotted outside an eatery near Cyber towers.," a senior official from Hyderabad police said.

KSPCB presents project on cleaning of rivers, coasts to CM

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

ON the lines of Namami Ganga (national mission for cleaning the river Ganga), the Karnataka government has announced a 'Blue Plastic' programme to clean rivers and coastlines in the state. However, no timeline has been decided for the programme.

The project, to be executed with funds from World Plan, was proposed by Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB), but a project plan has not been prepared yet.

KSPCB member secretary Srinivasalu said plastic entering water bodies is a matter of concern, which prompted the government to announce the project. The govt will decide who will execute the project, he said.

A senior KSPCB official said the plan will involve district administrations and locals, besides the tourism, revenue, irrigation and forest departments. Plans are also in place to involve tourists in the clean-up drive.

"The project has been delayed because officials from various departments are not able to come on to one platform. While regions in Western Ghats and coastal areas are to be included, choosing the rivers for the project has become a challenge due to political reasons, and also a matter of image among district administrations and politicians. No one wants their region on the list of polluted water bodies," the official said.KSPCB presented the project before CM Basavaraj Bommai as a five-year plan, involving experts from the region in the cleanliness and maintenance of water bodies.

"So far, a budget estimate has not been prepared for the project. It has been decided that the project will start when everyone is on board, and will be for a five-year duration. This could be after three months or next year, and is for the government to take up," the official added.

CENTRAL BANK TWEAK POSSIBLE AFTER U.S. FED RATE HIKE

High energy prices have set the inflation tiger on the loose and spurred global central banks into action. If the US Federal Reserve did a 180, leaping from a forever-dovish policy to the hawk-land with its 0.25 bps rate hike and a clear roadmap for six more hikes, the Bank of England was in lockstep and others are expected to follow suit. Markets have taken it well as though rate hikes were the only solution for an inflation problem that central banks said didn't even exist in the first place until recently. The RBI too has been maintaining an accommodative stance citing fiscal policy consolidation and an incomplete recovery. But the Fed liftoff ending an era of rock-bottom rates has stirred market expectation of some action from RBI next month. If not a repo rate hike, most expect the policy corridor between repo and reverse repo rate (which incidentally is the effective policy rate right now) to narrow down.

Regardless of the rate action, everyone agrees that RBI may revise its inflation forecast upwards, besides telegraphing its intent on the future course of its accommodative stance. Retail inflation stood at 6.01% and 6.07% in January and February respectively and must print at about 5% in March so as to meet its 5.7% inflation projection for Q4. If it goes dangerously above 5%, then we may miss the headline estimate of 5.3% for FY22. Some believe RBI will follow global cues and raise rates, albeit moderately in April, but another view is that the central bank may not swing at the pitch as it has room to stay the course. The retreat in global oil prices to $99 a barrel too provides additional comfort, while RBI's ability to handle anticipated capital flight and rupee depreciation against the dollar leading to imported inflation is somewhat proven. But then, uncertainties are coming at us non-stop leading to recurring inflationary fires and leaving inflation projections useless. It's crucial for RBI to remain ahead of its game to spare us from being eaten alive by the inflation tiger.

KERALA MUST SHED ITS PUBLIC SECTOR OBSESSION

Turning the state-owned public sector enterprises in Kerala profitable was one of the achievements proudly claimed by the CPM-led LDF during the campaign for the 2021 Assembly elections that it won. However, the Review of Public Enterprises in Kerala 2020–21 tabled in the Assembly last week presented a picture contrary to that claim. During 2020–21, 63 of the 116 active PSEs were in loss and the cumulative loss incurred by all PSEs grew 250%. Though the audited year can be marked as an exception considering the onslaught of Covid, the fact that 64 PSEs incurred losses in the previous year too negates the possibility of any such rationalisation. In fact, the net return of investment and net profit after tax of PSEs were in the negative for the last three years. The Kerala State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC), Kerala State Electricity Board (KSEB) and Kerala Water Authority (KWA) count among the top loss-making PSEs. A surprise new entrant is the Beverages Corporation, which enjoys a monopoly in liquor sales.

Romanticisation of the public sector has been a salient feature of Kerala politics for long. Successive governments infused more capital and provided budgetary assistance to ailing units in the guise of supporting their employees, numbering around 1.33 lakh. While it is understandable that public utility services like KSRTC, KSEB, and KWA need budgetary support to bridge the operational gap, there is no logic in the state trying to support companies that make cement, autorickshaws and soaps and vie with professionally managed private companies in the market. Disinvestment of the public sector companies, initiated by the Centre two decades ago, is still a taboo for Kerala's politicians.

While the CPM's agenda for 'New Kerala', accepted at the party's state conference, involves attracting large-scale private investments, the Assembly recently passed a resolution against divestment of LIC. After buying the BHEL-EML unit in Kasaragod and Hindustan Newsprint Limited in Vellore, the government has now set its eyes on HLL Lifecare, another PSU put up for sale by the Centre. The attempt to add more PSEs to its kitty when it is struggling to run those it has makes no economic sense. If the government is serious about building a New Kerala, it must shed the obsession with PSEs.

In an ideal GST, all goods and services would be part of it, in addition to a single rate. This will reduce compliance costs and curbs classification disputes and litigation

GST RATES: WE ARE CAUGHT IN A CLEFT STICK

SOUMYADIP SINHA

BIBEK DEBROY

Chairman, Economic Advisory Council to the PM

Lalayet pancha varshani, dasha varshani tadayet." This is a Sanskrit aphorism, sometimes ascribed to Kautilya/Chanakya. I have quoted the first half of the aphorism. "Nurture a child for the first five years and strike him with a rod for the next ten years." GST was born on 1 July 2017, though a long period of time elapsed between original conception and final delivery. After this July 1, GST will cease to be an under-5 child. As a society, it is necessary to take stock and chastise if necessary. As a subset of society and as the relevant decision-making body, it is up to the GST Council to restructure and reform. Compensation to states approaches its expiry date. But that's incidental. It may be of consequence, but is consequential. More important is the question of what we want GST to be. There can be no dispute about an ideal GST. All goods and services should be part of the GST net and there should be a single rate. All means all—alcohol (for human consumption), petroleum and products, electricity, land and many services now exempted. The word "exempted" should not be misunderstood. There are items that are part of the GST framework, but are "exempted" in the sense of being subject to a zero or nil rate. I am not using the word exempted in that sense.

My usage of "no exemptions" means everything should be part of GST. That's the ideal. That's where real efficiency gains come in. There can be no dispute about the ideal. Whether we aspire for the best, or for a second-best, is a secondary question. No country has achieved that ideal and we may not even want to get there. Even if we do, it will take several years. GST has to be work in progress (WIP). However, when economists use the expression "efficiency gains" and seek to estimate it, they have in mind that ideal. It's important to remember this. When GST was introduced, numbers floated around to the effect that GST would lead to incremental GDP growth of between 1.5% and 2%. When quoting, it is best to read the original source for such figures. This was a NCAER study done for the 13th Finance Commission (FC). The 13th FC Report said, "A National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER) study sponsored by the Commission explains why implementation of such a Model GST will be a positive sum game and will bring considerable economic benefits for the whole country, with reduced transaction costs, revenue neutrality and substantially lower tax rates. ... It estimates that implementation of a comprehensive GST across goods and services will enhance the nation's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) by between 0.9 and 1.7 per cent." Note the use of expressions like "Model" and "comprehensive". That's the ideal.

Even a WIP GST will reduce transaction costs and simplify. But 1% and 2% are for the ideal, not otherwise. You can rightly complain. I said—one should read the original source. But I have only quoted from a report that quoted the original. The original NCAER study is readily available. To quote from that, "The additional gain in GDP, originating from the GST reform, would be earned during all years in future over and above the growth in GDP which would have been achieved otherwise ... The GST must be applied on all sectors both tradable and non-tradable." Let me ignore the question of non-inclusion of items, except to point out that revenue neutrality and lower tax rates cannot be achieved without complete inclusion. Having said this, how many rates are there now? 0%, 0.1%, 0.25%, 3%, 5%, 12%, 18% and 28%. In addition, there is a GST compensation cess, hopefully temporary. That's not really a simplified structure, is it? There can be no quarrel with the proposition that the ideal is a single rate. This reduces compliance costs and curbs classification disputes and litigation.

> Surely, products consumed by the poor must be taxed at lower rates than items consumed by the relatively rich. I personally think this is a cobweb. Equity should be achieved through instruments other than tax policy. Within tax policy, progressivity should be introduced through direct taxes, not indirect. But spiders have spun such thick cobwebs that this proposition will never be accepted, not in India, not elsewhere

The counter-argument is obvious. Surely, products consumed by the poor must be taxed at lower rates than items consumed by the relatively rich. I personally think this is a cobweb. Equity should be achieved through instruments other than tax policy. Within tax policy, progressivity should be introduced through direct taxes, not indirect. But spiders have spun such thick cobwebs that this proposition will never be accepted, not in India, not elsewhere. There is also the argument about "inversion" in duties and a high rate cross-subsidising a lower rate. Hence, the 15th FC recommended three rates—merit, standard and demerit (sin). Consequently, we will quibble about which item belongs in which category. The GST Council has set up a GOM (Group of Ministers) in September 2021, to recommend simplification. For a start, the revenue neutral rate should have been at least 16%, if not more. The present average is 11.6%. That's because of a bunch of items at the lower end, triggered by perverse incentives revenue compensation created. Therefore, this boils down to deciding what those three rates are. What will 12%, 18% and 28% be merged at? That depends on what 0%, 0.1%, 0.25%, 3% and 5% are merged at. The standard should be the revenue neutral rate of 16%, or thereabouts. If the merit does not become at least 8% (not easy to accept), the demerit cannot be lower than 24%. In all probability, it will be more. Otherwise, there will be revenue losses. Let's see what the GOM recommends. We are caught in a cleft stick.

RELIGIOUS HARMONY: THE MUSLIM IN THEYYAM REASSESSED

CHANDRAN TV

Art critic & author. Teaches art history at the College of Fine Arts, Thiruvananthapuram

That the ritual and performance context of theyyam called kaliyattam maintains a "secular realm", as it incorporates the worship of Muslim deities within its fold, has gained popular acceptance today. True, there are a few Muslim deities being worshipped, and there are also a handful of Muslim families that traditionally perform some rituals in certain places. However, the 'religious harmony' being projected through these instances is largely a product of decontextualisation of mythic and performative expression.

The most popular Mappila (Muslim) theyyam performed across the two districts of Malabar (Kannur and Kasaragod) is Mukri theyyam. However, it may be noted that Mukri theyyam is always performed along with Karimchamundi, the chief deity propitiated in the respective shrines. It suggests that having no independent performance, Mukri theyyam has only a subordinate position in the hierarchy of deities. The visual and performative aspects of the given deity prove this further.

Generally a theyyam is made up of elaborate face-painting with embellished headgear and costume, which helps convincingly transform the impersonator from the real to a mythical being. As opposed to this spectacular form, in the Mukri theyyam, the Muslim protagonist sells fish, which was one of the main occupations of the community there. Wearing a checked dhoti, white banyan and skullcap with the namaz mark on the forehead, his identity is made explicit in order to show that he is not transformed into a deity.

This would assume more significance, if we take into account some rationale pertaining to visual formation in art. Accordingly a particular form or style of representation does not come into being for its stylistic preference, but rather to make itself to be an expressive structure of meaning that is distinct in itself. In other words, it is the content that determines the form as much as function determines the form of an object of practical use. To get into this interrelationship, we can have a cursory look into the myth of Mukri theyyam.

Kalanthan mukri leaves home in search of a midwife, as his wife is suffering from labour pain. To his surprise, he happens to see on his way an enchanting woman at the foot of a hill. She offers help, as she is herself a midwife and follows him back home. On reaching home she closes the doors of the room in which she is to assist with childbirth. Hours pass and there is no sign of life inside the room, either of his wife or of the newborn, except the sight of blood seeping out beneath the doors. Wasting no time, he crashes into the room only to see his wife dead with the womb shattered and the infant devoured by the ogress-midwife, who flees the scene miraculously. To retaliate, Kalanthan rushes out to track her down. Seeing her at the same place where he met her earlier, he strikes a hard kick at her back. She falls down with her backbone broken but then tears him into pieces.

It is believed that the midwife was Karimchamundi, disguised as a yakshi who feeds on human blood and flesh. It seems plausible as the performance of Karimchamundi theyyam incorporates the repeated rhythmic enactment of the yakshi as if taking bath and doing the hair. This corresponds to popular imageries of yakshis as conceived in folklore.

However, in the myth, the male Muslim appears to be protagonist, and the female yakshi the antagonist, so to speak. But contrary to our general perception, it is the perpetrator Karimchamundi (yakshi) who gains prominence in the realms of ritual and worship. This inversion is striking. Its meaning can be found in the performance. Performance begins from where the mythic narrative ends; it also begins to disclose what is enclosed in the myth.

Observing namaz, Kalanthan mukri keeps on moving around the shrine by enacting fish-mongering. A bit later, Karimchamundi as a yakshi appears in the scene. As soon as she performs initial rituals, Mukri or the Mappila stealthily moves towards Karimchamundi and kicks her hard at the back and moves out of her sight. Karimchamundi falls down. She crawls and rolls over the ground with her broken spine in an astonishingly ferocious form to perform a counterattack. Finally Karimchamundi slaughters him (While she unleashes her boundless fury at these terrific moments, no Muslim is expected to be there even as a spectator, as he may fall prey to her wrath—what a secular/harmonious realm!).

The dominant note of the performance is the stunning and terrorstriking sweep of Karimchamundi. For the same reason, Mappila becomes a villain, but is conspicuously vulnerable before the devastating power of Karimchamundi.

As most spectator-devotees are quite unaware of the original myth, what is performed is original and complete in itself. With the striking contrasts in the visual and performative aspects between Karimchamundi and Mappila theyyam, it seeks to construct meanings upon the binaries like the powerful/powerless, the mythical/real, devouring/ the devoured, Hindu/Muslim and so on, which in effect strives for the assertion of identity, superiority and domination of the worshippers of Karimchamundi over the religious Other.

It is tenable to think more in this line because Kalanthan in the myth is not just an ordinary Muslim. As the Imam (mukri) of Peringome mosque, he symbolically represents the whole community. So does his wife—a symbol of motherhood and female energy. Their innocence in the bloodshed, therefore, is ignored. For the same reason the myth envelopes an unconscious attitude to subdue and control the religious Other who has emerged as a challenging force, either real or imagined.

The given myth and its performance in this sense may not be the reflection of a historical reality, but they reflect upon a historical moment that was probably running into a rough weather of communal conflict experienced at least in the collective mind. In this line, there are some more records and oral traditions to construe that today's 'harmony' was born out of yesterday's disharmony.

Mental health in PHCs

This is with reference to Tele-mental health project timely (Mar 18). The scope of the programme, as rightly pointed out by the author, is dependent on digital awareness, hassle-free connectivity, security issues and above all the accuracy in diagnosis through virtual media. It is pathetic to learn that there is only one psychiatrist for every 10 lakh people in India. Patients in rural areas hardly consult a mental health practitioner due to the stigma attached. The general medical practitioners are mostly indifferent to the mental health issues of their patients and hardly refer them to specialists. The state governments should at least appoint one mental health counsellor, if not a qualified physician, right from the Primary Health Centre level.

BSNL's sorry state

This is with reference to BSNL suffers ₹50,631 cr loss in 5 years (Mar 17). The state-owned firm has lost its relevance after the entry of private players such as Jio into the telecom field. There are many reasons for this sorry state of affairs including corruption, mismanagement and poor service. Things have not improved even after the government trimmed BSNL's workforce through a voluntary retirement scheme. The government has to consider drastic steps such as privatisation as otherwise BSNL will continue to be a drain on the exchequer.

Reduce tax rates

The article What parotta and pizza disputes tell us about GST rates (Mar 17) highlights the influence of the tax even for the smallest products. The piece rightly points to the overlooked fact that if these goods and services were taxed at a lower rate, they would be affordable to even those who are not as well off, thereby bringing in more tax revenue to the government.

Centre should pressure SL

This is with reference to Permanent solution needed for TN fishers (Mar 17). As you have rightly stated in the editorial, the arrest of Tamil fishermen in Sri Lankan waters has become a common occurrence. Though the external affairs ministry and the TN state government are taking every possible step for the release of the detained fishermen each and every time, the problem persists. The Lankan government seeks the help of our nation for humongous financial assistance, development of many kinds of infra and the like. Since India maintains friendly ties with the island nation, the Centre should exert pressure on Lanka not to arrest our fishermen unnecessarily.

Indians got 43% of all skilled work visas last year, says UK mission

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

INDIANS nationals are the top nationality in the skilled work category in the United Kingdom, accounting for two-fifth's of visas granted. "In the last year alone, over 65,500 Skilled Worker visas were issued to Indian nationals," a British High Commission spokesperson told this newspaper.

Indians have accounted for 43% of the total skilled worker visas in 2021, which is a 14% increase from 2019. Experts attribute this to point-based UK immigration system that was launched post Brexit.

In May 2021, the UK signed the Migration and Mobility Partnership with India, increasing cooperation on migration and opening access for youth mobility.

A number of legal routes are being offered to work in the UK. These include the Skilled Worker route, Graduate Route and Health and Care Worker visa.

According to the UK Home Office, the number of UK Skilled worker visas issued to overseas nationals since 2020 has risen by a staggering 110%. Indians and Nigerians have gained the most from this.

In all, 239,987 work-related UK visas were granted in 2021, which included those for dependents. Out of this, 150,000 were skilled worker visas. This is 25% higher than what was issued in 2019.

The number of skilled workers arriving into UK from the US declined by a quarter compared to 2019. The visas issued to people from Pakistan increased by 62% when compared to 2019.

Meanwhile, the Tier 1 Investor visa route to get permanent citizenship in the UK was scrapped earlier this year, amidst charges of corruption and money laundering. Nirav Modi is said to have got his citizenship through this visa scheme and there are close to 254 Indian millionaires who got British passports due to this scheme since 2008.

Also referred as the golden visa, the process to get one began with a commitment to invest ₹20 crore in the UK. This permitted people to live in the UK for three years, followed by a two year extension.

Govt sources say New Delhi has every right to meet its legitimate energy needs and that it should not be politicised

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

INDIA on Friday rebuffed the US demand that New Delhi stop buying Russian oil saying the country has the right to meet its legitimate energy needs through all means available to it. Slamming the Western powers for putting pressure to cut energy imports from Russia, India said its legitimate energy transactions should not be unnecessarily politicised.

Moreover, countries that are self-sufficient in oil or are themselves importing from Russia for their needs should refrain from advocating restrictive trading, government sources said on Friday.

New Delhi's assertion came amid some criticism against India over its position that it is open to buying discounted crude oil from Russia.

According to reports, the state-run Indian Oil Corp. bought 3 million barrels of crude oil from Russia earlier this week.

Sources said the jump in oil prices following the Ukraine conflict added to India's challenges and pressure for competitive sourcing has naturally increased. They said Russia has been a marginal supplier of crude oil to India and it is less than 1% of the country's total requirement. Also, there is no government-to-government arrangement for the import.

Russia has offered discounted crude oil in the wake of the Western sanctions on it following its military aggression against Ukraine.

External Affairs Ministry Spokesperson Arindam Bagchi had said on Thursday that India looks at all options all the time as a major importer of oil. Bagchi said Russia is not a major supplier of crude oil for India. "Let me highlight that a number of countries are doing so, especially in Europe."

Meanwhile, Iran offered to meet India's energy security needs. "Rupee-rial trade mechanism can help companies from both the countries to deal with each other directly and avoid third party intermediation costs," Iran's ambassador to India Ali Chegeni said at an event organized by the MVIRDC World Trade Centre, Mumbai.

Tehran used to be the second largest oil supplier to India but New Delhi had to halt imports after former US president Donald Trump re-imposed sanctions on Iran's oil exports.

"India has to keep focusing on competitive energy sources. We welcome such offers from all producers. Indian traders, too, operate in global energy markets to explore best options," said a source.

India, the world's third biggest oil importer and consumer, meets over 80% of its crude oil needs through imports.

Ukraine to figure in summit talks with Modi: Morrison

AUSTRALIAN Prime Minister Scott Morrison on Friday said the situation in Ukraine and its implications for the Indo-Pacific will figure in his virtual summit with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday.

"We will also discuss a range of regional and multilateral issues, including the situation in Ukraine and its implications for the Indo-Pacific, and Myanmar," the Australian prime minister said.

Morrison said Australia and India's strong bilateral relationship is based on mutual understanding and trust and that both sides have a shared vision for the Indo-Pacific.

Monday's summit follows the historic first virtual summit of June 4, 2020 when the India-Australia relationship was elevated to a 'Comprehensive Strategic Partnership'.

"Prime Minister Modi and I will discuss deepening our trade and investment relationship and harnessing new economic opportunities to support our mutual economic recovery and growth," Morrison added.

Celebrating the fest with old footwear, vegetables

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

HOLI is generally celebrated by throwing and smearing colour on each other. But in Visnagar in Gujarat's Mehsana district, it is marked by throwing old footwear and vegetables at each other. This tradition has been going on in this city for the past 100 years.

In Visnagar, throwing footwear at each other is recognised as Khasda yudh (old footwear war) and locals believe the person who gets hit by shoes will have a very good year ahead. It is usually done on Dhuleti (2nd day of Holi). Earlier, only footwear was used for Khasda yudh. Later, vegetables were included.

The celebration starts early in the morning, when people from various communities gather in the Mandi Bazaar area of Visnagar. They divide into two groups of those from the northern part of the city and those form the southern part and start throwing footwear and vegetables at each other. Then there is friction between the two groups to get a jug full of dates in the middle of Mandi Bazar. After the 'battle' is over, the victorious group travels from house to house collecting dates and distributing them to the locals.

Suresh Patel, a resident of Visnagar, said: "Those who get hit by vegetable and footwear will have a good time and blessings for one year."

WATER WOES

Uttarakhand braces for a harsh summer

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

EVEN before the summer season started, as many as 100 towns across 13 districts in Uttarakhand are already experiencing water scarcity. According to data from Jal Sansthan, the government body responsible for water supply in urban households in the state, only 649.86 million liters per day (mld) can be supplied against the demand of 833.77 mld.

"The organisation is in bad shape with crores of pending bills and no money to upgrade. Water scarcity is already there due to environmental factors. Other issues are also plaguing the department, giving rise in the gap of demand and supply," a senior official told this newspaper.

The situation will worsen in peak summers if the gap between supply and demand is not narrowed. In October last year, Union minister Ajay Bhatt had to face the ire of residents during his visit to Nainital.

Uttarakhand uses 60% of surface water while 40% of ground water is needed to meet the daily needs of residents given the hilly terrain of the state. Countless natural springs, rivulets, rivers and waterfalls also contribute to water supply in the hill state.

"We are facing water crisis because of lack of sustainable development policies and drying of natural springs in the Himalayas. In near future, the crisis is going to get amplified if we fail to contain it," said Dr Vishal Singh, executive director of Dehradun-based Centre for Ecology Development and Research.

In seven urban areas of the state capital Dehrdaun, Selaqui is getting the least water supply while other six including Dehradun, Rishikesh, Doiwala, Vikasnagar are being supplied with 135 liters per person (capita) per day (LPCD) at par with the requirement.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AT a time political parties of all hues make a hue and cry over corruption, over 100 cases of bank-frauds and misappropriation amounting to ₹50,000 crore to be investigated by the Central Bureau of Investigation still await the general consent from state governments.

The information was disclosed in the Rajya Sabha in response to a zero-hour question raised by BJP MP Sushil Kumar Modi. Nine states have withdrawn their general consents to the CBI. Quoting details from the government's reply, the BJP MP said, "The cases include Punjab National Bank's ₹1,107 crore fraud and Bank of Baroda's ₹739 crore fraud. Investigation into the two cases is yet to start as the CBI is still awaiting the Maharashtra government's consent."

He said he had urged the Central government to take necessary steps to ensure such grave crimes are dealt with urgently and the CBI investigations into cases worth ₹50,000 crore be started soon without delays in getting consents.

So far, the states of Maharashtra, West Bengal, Punjab, Rajasthan, Kerala, Mizoram, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh and Meghalaya have withdrawn consent to the CBI to investigate cases in the states related to bank frauds or other financial fraud cases. The Meghalaya is the latest to withdraw its general consent to the CBI investigation.

Last year, the Supreme Court had expressed serious concern upon being informed that the requests for general consent were pending in many states.

The national investigative agency was formed under the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 with mandatory of obtaining the consent of the state government before starting investigation into a crime or corruption case related to the states.

Controversial cop given marching orders after Nitish-Speaker face-off

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

BIHAR's controversial police officer Ranjan Kumar, who was at the centre of a face-off between chief minister Nitish Kumar and the Speaker Vijay Kumar Sinha, was issued marching orders on Friday. Ranjan, currently the sub-divisional police officer of Lakhisarai, has been transferred to East Champaran district, according to a notification issued by the home department.

Syed Imran Masood, a young 2018-batch IPS officer, will replace Ranjan. Masood was earlier posted as additional SP of Danapur in Patna. Ranjan and two other police officers were accused of misbehaving with Sinha when the latter enquired about the arrest of one Gautam Kumar in connection with violation of Covid19 guidelines in February this year. Sinha represents Lakhisarai assembly segment.

Later, a privilege motion notice was issued to Ranjan Kumar for his alleged misbehaviour with the Speaker. The director general of police S K Singhal was also summoned and asked for a report. The matter is still pending with the privilege committee.

The matter was raised in the Assembly by BJP legislator Sanjay Saraogi on Monday, which prompted the CM to engage in a heated discussion with the Speaker. Nitish was so agitated that he said the Speaker was running the House in violation of the Constitution.

Ranjan Kumar was posted in Lakhisarai for over two years and is considered close JDU national chief Rajiv Ranjan Singh alias Lalan Singh.

The spar between the Speaker and the CM had led to disruption of the proceedings of budget session of the House for two consecutive days.

MULES HELP BRING RATION TO FAR-OFF ARUNACHAL VILLAGES

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

IN the Siang district of Himalayan Arunachal Pradesh, the authorities have given ten mules to the village committees of the Payum circle which can be used to bring essential items.

Most villages in Payum are not yet connected by motorable road. As a result, the villagers had to walk carrying the ration and other essential items for a distance of 10-25 kilometres from Molo till where the vehicles ply.

To help the villagers, the district administration has launched the mule service on a trial basis.

It comes after District Magistrate Atul Tayeng visited the villages and observed the difficulties faces by the residents in bringing ration and other items home. Officials said a committee, headed by the village chieftain, would be set up in each village to take care of the animals.

The mules were procured with financial support from the administration.

Tayeng assured the villagers that more mules would be gifted to each village if the experiment bears fruits. Besides, a road is being constructed to connect the villages in the circle.

The district magistrate told the village committee that initially, observation and care would be required on the adaptability of the animals.

He directed the village authorities and officials to make use of the mule service and ensure that PDS items are regularly delivered to the villages by the fair price shops concerned.

The villagers appreciated the initiative and hoped it would ease their difficulties.

They requested for provision of proper training for handling of the animals by an expert person.

Many areas of Arunachal Pradesh are difficult to access even today. The local authorities, the Election Commission and even the Army take the help of porters to ferry materials and essential items.

Chamoli disaster last year could have been contained, finds study

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

HIGHLIGHTING the importance of an early warning system, a study by the Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology revealed that there were seismic precursors two-and-half hours before the avalanche that killed several people in Chamoli last year struck.

Had the seismic precursors been detected, the loss of lives could have been minimised.

The study titled 'Potential seismic precursors and surficial dynamics of a deadly Himalayan disaster: an early warning approach' noted that "had there been an early warning system in place, there was enough time for mass evacuation".

The study noted that high-quality data with dense seismic array can improve the monitoring of potentially dangerous zones.

The authors of the report suggested deploying dense seismic network with other early warning parameters in potential danger zones, which could help detect seismic precursors and develop an early warning system that could lead to a timely identifcation of new potentially active zones, which may create a critical situation in the future. "An integrated early warning perspective with a capability of practical response, communication, education and awareness would provide an effective approach for hazard mitigation," said the report.

Last year, a study said the cause of Chamoli flashfloods was a rock and ice avalanche that released energy "equivalent to about 15 Hiroshima atomic bombs", highlighting the risks associated with the 'rapid expansion of hydropower infrastructure into increasingly unstable territory'.

Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology

In the study published in the Science, 53 scientists, experts and researchers questioned the long-term sustainability of hydroelectric projects and asserted that they be planned keeping in mind both current and future social and environmental conditions including risks to infrastructure, personnel, and downstream communities.

Seismicity is an important consideration when locating and constructing hydropower projects in the Himalayan region as many areas there are vulnerable to large earthquakes, the study noted. The authors added the great magnitude of that event calls for avoiding development in these areas, especially given that we can expect global warming to increase the frequency of earthquakes.

"It is apparent that the tension between conservation on one hand, and the pressures to develop on the other hand are very much alive in Uttarakhand and other Himalayan states," said the study.

"We have planted early, mid, mid-late and late varieties of tulips to ensure that the tulip garden remains open for a month and it remains a point of attraction for the visitors," Farooq Ahmad Rather, Director of Floriculture, said.

Besides tulips, the garden, spread over an area of about 30 hectares, has Muscari Daffodil, Hyssen and other types of flowers to attract the visitors.

According to Inam, a record 2.25 lakh people visited the tulip garden last year and the number could have been much higher but the garden had to close for 10 days due to a surge in Covid cases.

The flow of visitors to the garden spikes last year after Prime Minister Narendra Modi tweeted about it.

A day before its opening on March 25 last year, the prime minister posted a beautiful collage of the tulips on Twitter.

Cover up all open wells near forests, Centre tells states, UTs

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEF&CC) has asked Chief Wildlife Wardens of all states and Union territories to ensure that open wells in and around forest areas are covered so that they may not harm wildlife.

The ministry was responding to the concerns raised by Chhattisgarh-based wildlife enthusiast Nitin Singhvi, highlighting the threat posed by open wells to the safety of wild animals.

"Open wells in and around forests may prove to be a hazard to wildlife, leading to death or permanent disablement of wild animals," stated Rakesh Kumar Jagenia, deputy inspector general of forests (Wild Life) MoEF&CC in his circular underlining the concerns raised by Singhvi.

The buffer zones, which mark the transition between forest areas and human settlements, are dotted with uncovered open wells, many remaining dry after the monsoon. With the prey base of wild animals falling, they are forced to venture out into human settlements where they risk falling into the uncovered wells. "In India, hundreds of wild animals including leopards, jackals, civets, wolves, hyenas, die every year after accidentally falling into open wells in and around the forests," Singhvi wrote in his appeal to the ministry.

Jharkhand boosts hadopathy through medicinal gardens

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

JHARKHAND'S rural development department has decided to promote 'Hodopathy', a traditional medicinal system practiced by the state's tribal community.

The practice of Hodopathy, which uses herbs to cure illnesses, has significantly decreased over the last few decades due to a decline in the availability of medicinal plants.

The Jharkhand State Livelihood Promotion Society (JSLPS), under 'Mahila Kisan Shashaktikaran Pariyojana' (MKSP), will strive to revive the age-old traditional medicinal method by promoting medicinal gardens.

Under this initiative, saplings of the medicinal plants are being made available to women of Self Help Groups at subsidised rates.

Apart from improving the people's immunity, those promoting the initiative say it creates job opportunities for hundreds of women living in the remote villages of Jharkhand.

Many women have already set up nurseries selling medicinal plants (medicinal garden) and are earning a living through them.

Anita Sanga, a resident of Birhu Badka Toli in the Maoist hotbed of Khunti, who has set up a medicinal garden under the initiative, said that it has brought huge profits for her.

"I set up the nursery for the first time last year, and a profit of ₹2 lakh, besides keeping the coronavirus away during the pandemic. I also made other women aware about its usage due to which none of us had to visit hospitals even during the peak of the pandemic," said Sanga. Earlier, she used to sel forest produce to earn a living. But now, she sells more than 50 varieties of medicinal plants.

Lalita Devi from Bishunpur in Gumla also said she and her family succeeded in keeping the virus away by taking 'kadha' of medicinal plants, besides making money by selling it. She is also engaged in works to make other women of her village aware of the benefits of medicinal plants, she said.

Officials said the initiative has been launched in 35 blocks of the state's 17 tribal-dominated districts, involving more than 6,500 women from Self Help Groups.

India's biggest coal and power-producing district of Korba may become a classic example of how we can deal with the challenges posed by the transition to renewable energy. The latest findings by the International Forum for Environment, Sustainability & Technology (iFOREST) suggest that economic restructuring and development intervention would be essential for the district, which is highly dependent on the coal industry for jobs and growth. Putin appears at huge rally as troops pound Ukraine

Moscow says it has made progress in negotiations; Russian forces intensify attack on capital city of Kyiv, launch barrage of missiles on outskirts of Lviv

LVIV

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin appeared at a huge flag-waving rally at a Moscow stadium on Friday and lavished praise on his country's troops fighting in Ukraine.

Meanwhile, the leader of Russia's delegation in diplomatic talks with Ukraine said the sides have narrowed their differences. The Ukrainian side gave no immediate account of the negotiations.

The Moscow rally came as Russian troops continued to rain lethal fire on Ukrainian cities, including the capital, Kyiv, and pounded an aircraft repair installation on the outskirts of Lviv, close to the Polish border. "Shoulder to shoulder, they help and support each other," the Russian president said of the Kremlin's forces in a rare public appearance since the start of the war. "We have not had unity like this for a long time," he added to cheers from the crowd.

Moscow police said more than 2,00,000 people were in and around the Luzhniki stadium for the celebration marking the eighth anniversary of Russia's annexation of the Crimean peninsula, seized from Ukraine.

The event included patriotic songs, including a performance of 'Made in the USSR,' with the opening lines 'Ukraine and Crimea, Belarus and Moldova, it's all my country.'

Seeking to portray the war as just, Putin paraphrased the Bible to say of Russia's troops: "There is no greater love than giving up one's soul for one's friends." And he continued to insist his actions were necessary to prevent 'genocide,' a claim flatly denied by leaders around the globe. Video feeds of the event showed a loudly cheering, flag-waving crowd that broke into chants of 'Russia!'

The rally came as Vladimir Medinsky, who led Russian negotiators in several rounds of talks with Ukraine, said the sides have moved closer to agreement on the issue of Ukraine dropping its bid to join NATO and adopting a neutral status. "The issue of neutral status and no NATO membership for Ukraine is one of the key issues in talks, and that is the issue where the parties have made their positions maximally close," Medinsky said in remarks carried by Russian media.

Earlier on Friday, one person was reported killed in the missile attack near Lviv. Satellite photos showed the strike destroyed a repair hangar and appeared to damage two other buildings. Ukraine said it had shot down two of six missiles in the volley, which came from the Black Sea.

The early morning attack was the closest strike yet to the centre of Lviv, which has become a crossroads for people fleeing from other parts of Ukraine and for others entering to deliver aid or join the fight. The war has swelled the city's population by some 200,000.

In city after city around Ukraine, hospitals, schools and buildings where people sought safety have been attacked. Rescue workers continued to search for survivors in the ruins of a theater that was being used a shelter when it was blasted by a Russian airstrike Wednesday in the besieged southern city of Mariupol.

Early morning barrages also hit a residential building in the Podil neighbourhood of Kyiv, killing at least one person, according to emergency services, who said 98 people were evacuated from the building. AP

Greece offers to rebuild Mariupol hospital

Athens: Prime Minister Kyriakos Mitsotakis on Friday said Greece was prepared to rebuild the maternity hospital in Ukraine's city of Mariupol. "Greece is ready to rebuild the maternity hospital in Mariupol, the centre of the Greek minority in Ukraine, a city dear to our hearts and symbol of the barbarity of the war," Mitsotakis said in a tweet. The maternity and children's hospital in the southeastern Ukrainian city was shelled last week, killing three people, including a child. AFP

Ukraine fears hundreds trapped in razed theatre

KYIV

UKRAINE'S President Volodymyr Zelenskyy on Friday said 130 people were saved after the bombing of a theatre in the port city of Mariupol under Russian siege, but "hundreds" were still trapped in rubble.

"More than 130 people have been saved. But hundreds of Mariupol residents are still beneath the rubble," Zelenskyy said in a video address on Facebook.

He promised to continue rescue operations in Mariupol "despite shelling" in the southern city that has suffered vast destruction.

Ukraine accused Russia of hitting the theatre on Wednesday, though Moscow denied this. Ukraine's ombudswoman Lyudmyla Denisova earlier said a bomb shelter underneath the Drama Theatre had survived the impact, and some "adults and children" had emerged alive.

It had been feared that up to 1,000 people may have been taking refuge underground at the time of the blast. Days before the apparent attack, satellite images shared by private company Maxar, clearly showed the word "DETI" — or "children" in Russian — written on the ground on either side of the building. The Russian army on Friday said it was fighting in the city centre of Mariupol. Zelenskyy said Western weapon deliveries to the country were too slow. "We again remind certain Western leaders that it will be a moral defeat for them... if Ukraine does not receive advanced weapons," he said.

He repeated calls for European ports to deny entry to all Russian ships and criticised some Western firms for not leaving Russia after it invaded Ukraine on February 24.

"All Western companies must leave the Russian market," he said. AFP

Leaders renew calls to probe attacks on civilians

KYIV

AS Russian forces pressed their assault on Ukraine, world leaders called anew for an investigation of the Kremlin's repeat attacks on civilian targets, including airstrikes on schools, hospitals and residential areas that led one official to lament that his city had never seen such "nightmarish, colossal losses".

US Secretary of State Antony Blinken said American officials were evaluating potential war crimes and that if the intentional targeting of civilians by Russia is confirmed, there will be "massive consequences". Hospitals, schools and buildings where people sought safety from the bombardment have been attacked. In Merefa, near the northeast city of Kharkiv, at least 21 people were killed when Russian artillery destroyed a school and a community center, a local official said.

In the northern city of Chernihiv, dozens of bodies were brought to the morgue in just one day. United Nations political chief, Undersecretary-General Rosemary DiCarlo, also called for an investigation into civilian casualties, reminding the UN Security Council that international humanitarian law bans direct attacks on civilians. She said many of the daily attacks battering Ukrainian cities "are reportedly indiscriminate" and involve the use of "explosive weapons with a wide impact area". DiCarlo said the devastation in Mariupol and Kharkiv "raises grave fears about the fate of millions of residents of Kyiv and other cities facing intensifying attacks." AP

UK media watchdog revokes Russian channel RT's licence

LONDON

THE UK's communications regulator, Office of Communications (Ofcom), on Friday revoked the licence of Russian television channel RT to broadcast in the country with immediate effect after an investigation into its coverage of the Russia-Ukraine conflict.

Ofcom ruled that it did not consider RT's licensee, ANO TV Novosti, "fit and proper" to hold a UK broadcast licence. It said the decision to revoke the licence comes amid investigations into coverage of the channel, which was previously known as Russia Today. "Following an independent regulatory process, we have found that RT is not fit to hold a licence in the UK," she said. AP

Taliban free 3 detained TV staffers

KABUL

THE Taliban have released three employees of Afghanistan's largest television station who were detained over a report that the country's new rulers had banned all broadcasts of foreign drama series, a channel executive said on Friday.

Three staffers from TOLO TV were taken from the station on Thursday evening, according to Khpalwak Sapai, head of TOLO-News department and one of the arrested.

Sapai later said he and Nafay Khaleeq, the station's legal adviser, were released within hours later on Thursday.

Journalist Bahram Aman, a news presenter, was kept in custody overnight and released on Friday evening, the station said. Moby Group, the media company that owns TOLO TV, said the detentions were the result of the station reporting "about the banning of the foreign drama series", a decision made by the Taliban-appointed Ministry for the Propagation of Virtue and Prevention of Vice. The Taliban gave no explanation for their ban, the latest restriction imposed since their takeover of the country in mid-August.

TOLO TV is an Afghan-owned media company with interests in South and Central Asia as well as the Middle East and Africa.

The United Nations and the Committee to Protect Journalists decried the arrests and demanded the Taliban stop harassing Afghan journalists and stifling free expression through threats, arrests and intimidation.

"The Taliban must immediately ... stop detaining and intimidating members of the Afghanistan press corps,' a statement from Committee to Protect Journalists said. AP

Israel urges United States not to drop Iran Guards from terror list

JERUSALEM: Israel on Friday appealed to the United States not to remove Iran's Revolutionary Guards from its blacklist of foreign terrorist organisations as part of a revived nuclear deal. The Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps "is a terrorist organisation that has murdered thousands of people, including Americans," Prime Minister Naftali Bennett and Foreign Minister Yair Lapid said in a joint statement. "We refuse to believe that the United States would remove its designation as a terrorist organisation," they said.

Experts see limited upward move for rupee

Its upward move against dollar is driven by net FII investment getting positive after selling shares worth ₹1.4 L cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIAN rupee strengthened 1% against dollar in a reversal of trend, when the local currency breached the 77 levels in the previous week. Can rupee sustain the gains as foreign institutional investors return to Indian equity markets and geopolitical tensions ease?

The Indian Rupee ended Thursday at 75.90 posting the biggest weekly gain in nearly 3 months against the dollar, raising hopes that rupee might gain past 75 levels to settle anywhere around 73-74.

Rupee's upward move against dollar is primarily driven by net FII investment getting positive after having sold shares worth ₹1.4 lakh crore in the current financial year. On Thursday, FIIs purchased equities worth ₹2800 crore.

Another factor that is driving the Rupee is falling crude prices, which after touching $140 a barrel dropped below $100. On Friday, it was trading at XXX. The interest rate differential between US and India also turned negative as inflation in the US topped 7.5% against India's 6%. This removes the downward bias against rupee. But are these good enough for rupee to settle anywhere between 73 and 74?

Experts say favorable factors which have resulted in short-term appreciation of rupee might not support the local currency beyond a certain level.

The rupee is already reacting to external tensions and, we believe, will depreciate further and settle around 77.5 a dollar by March 2023, says a report by rating agency Crisil. According to it, two factors will play a pivotal role in driving the weakness -- higher energy prices widening the current account deficit, rate hikes by US Fed resulting in capital outflow.

JAPAN

BOJ KEEPS HUGE STIMULUS, CAUTIOUS TONE ON WAR

The Bank of Japan maintained its massive stimulus on Friday and warned of heightening risks to a fragile economic recovery from the Ukraine crisis, reinforcing expectations it will remain an outlier in the global shift towards tighter monetary policy. Rising fuel and commodity prices blamed on the war in Ukraine could drive up consumer inflation to the BOJ's 2% target in coming months, Governor Haruhiko Kuroda said. But such cost-push inflation will be short-lived and won't prompt the BOJ to withdraw stimulus, he added, stressing the bank's resolve to maintain huge monetary support for an economy yet to fully recover from the Covid-19 pandemic's wounds. The BOJ's dovish tone is in stark contrast with the U.S. Federal Reserve and the Bank of England, which raised interest rates this week to stop fast-rising inflation becoming entrenched. As widely expected, the BOJ maintained its short-term rate target at -0.1% and that for the 10-year bond yield around 0% at the two-day policy meeting that ended on Friday.

CHINA

REGIONAL FOREX REGULATORS UP $ BOND SUPERVISION

Some regional branches of China's foreign exchange regulator have strengthened supervision of overseas bond issuance by local government financing vehicles to guard against debt risks, three sources with knowledge of the matter told Reuters on Friday. A directive by the State Administration of Foreign Exchange (SAFE) to regional governments to strengthen supervision led some regional branches to tighten requirements for dollar bond issuance by some local government financing vehicles (LGFVs), the sources said. One of the sources said that while SAFE's policies had not changed, the impact of stricter pre-issuance supervision was noticeable. In a faxed response to Reuters' questions, SAFE denied a tightening of regulations. The moves follow a steady string of defaults by Chinese issuers on their offshore debts, which has driven spreads on Chinese high-yield debt to record highs this week. Goldman Sachs analysts estimated Friday that by one measure high-yield property issuers have defaulted on nearly a quarter of their outstanding bonds this year.

PHILIPPINES

CENTRAL BANK SEES WIDER C/A DEFICIT IN 2022, 2023

The Philippines central bank said on Friday it had revised its current account and balance of payments projections for this year to reflect the country's improving growth prospects as well as the impact of Russia's invasion of Ukraine. The country's current account deficit is projected to reach$16.3 billion this year, or 3.8% of gross domestic product, the central bank said, wider than its previous forecast of $9.9 billion, or 2.3% of GDP, before slightly narrowing to a deficit equal to 3.7% of GDP in 2023. It also revised its estimate for the country's balance of payments (BOP) position this year to a deficit of $4.3 billion, or 1.0% of GDP, a reversal from a surplus projection equal to 0.2% of GDP. For next year, the BOP is expected to remain in a deficit equal to 0.6% of GDP. Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) Deputy Governor Francisco Dakila told a media briefing robust foreign international reserves and strong growth in remittances should sustain the country's external position. The Philippine economy's limited economic exposure to Russia and Ukraine should insulate it from impact of the war, BSP managing director Zeno Abenoja said.

Scrap arrivals surge as gold crosses ₹50k-mark

RAM SAHGAL @Mumbai

HOUSEHOLDS in need of cash are making the most of the recent rise in gold prices to 18-month highs. Pinched by rising retail prices, they are selling gold ornaments outright across the country's bullion and jewellery markets, said leading industry sources.

"Taking advantage of the rising prices, customers are selling old jewellery across our outlets," said Suvankar Sen, CEO, Senco Gold & Diamonds, which runs 125 stores across 14 states. "Some are in need of liquidity and others simply want to book profit with the price jumping over ₹50k (per 10 gm) in recent times. So much so they are bearing the loss of 3% GST."

When a resident individual buys gold items, she pays a 3% GST, in addition to 10.75% import duty. However, since she is an unregistered dealer, she has to forfeit the GST while selling gold jewellery.

Debajit Saha, lead analyst at Refinitiv Metals Team, estimates scrap arrivals in the March quarter to be 65-70% higher than the 12-tonne arrival in the year ago quarter .

"These are outright sales by households to benefit from higher prices," Saha told TNIE.

The India Bullion and Jewellers Association's (IBJA) PM rate of 99.5% purity gold at ₹51358 per 10 gm (ex GST) on Thursday was around 4% below its March 7 high of ₹53380. However, this compares with ₹48000-49000 just before Russia's invasion of Ukraine on February 24. Gold hit a record PM rate high of Rs 55901 on August 7, 2020, months after the Pandemic surfaced.

"Above ₹50k, many customers facing hardships amid rising inflation have been selling old jewellery," said Haresh Kewalramani, Maharshtra president of IBJA, whose rates are used to price sovereign gold bonds. He added the recent volatility in gold prices was due to factors like rising inflation in the US and more recently the war in Ukraine, rather than drop in Indian demand. India's retail price inflation rose to 6.07% in February, above the RBI's medium term inflation target of 4% plus or minus 2%.

When a resident individual buys gold items, she pays a 3% GST, in addition to 10.75% import duty. But since she is an unregistered dealer, she has to forfeit the GST while selling gold jewellery

India imports 173.32 mn tonnes of coal in 2021-22; plans to cut down

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DESPITE being the second largest coal producer in the world, India in 2021-22 (till January) imported around 173.32 million tonnes of coal.

As per the coal directory 2020-21, India is the second largest importer, and it mainly imports coal from Indonesia, Australia, South Africa and USA. The country has imported 215.25 million tonnes in 2020-21, 248.54 million tonnes in 2019-20 and 235.35 million tonnes in 2018-19.

"India is Importing as well as Exporting coal from/ to other countries. Major countries from where the coal is being imported are Indonesia, Australia, South Africa & USA. In comparison to imports, the export of coal from India is meagre. Indian coal is mainly exported to Nepal, Bangladesh and Bhutan," said the coal minister Prahlad Joshi in Parliament.

This year, the government is trying to bring down its coal imports substantially. The reason is a sharp increase in international coal prices and increase in domestic production. This fiscal 2022-23, the government expects to cut the import of coal (coking and non-coking) by around 35-40 million tonnes (mt) and it is likely to be close to 180-190 mt in FY-22, as compared with 214.99 mt in FY-21. In October 2021, the country faced a major coal crisis, raising concern about a possible electricity shortage in the country.

The coal stock at the power plants depleted to 7.2 Million Tonnes (MT) as on 8th October, 2021. The government blamed it on increased demand of power, less power generation by imported coal based power plants and some interruption in supply of coal due to heavy rains.

Subsequently with increased coal supplies, the coal stock has started increasing and has now reached 26.5 MT as on 9 March with respect to the plants based on domestic coal.

EXPORT REACHES $390 BN AS OF MARCH 14: GOYAL

NEW DELHI: Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal has said India's merchandise exports have reached almost $390 billion as of March 14 and will cross $400 billion in the current financial year. He said auto components industry has, for the first time, recorded a trade surplus of $600 million. The minister urged automakers to buy local products and substitute imports.

He said this while addressing an event of the automotive component sector on March 16 here.

Goyal pointed out that India could no longer afford to be closed and protective but will have to open up domestic markets. Further, he asked the auto industry to invest more in R&D (research and development), especially e-mobility, set higher benchmarks for performance and aspire to take five Indian companies in top-50 global automotive suppliers club. "India's merchandise exports have reached almost $390 billion as of March 14 and will certainly cross $400 billion in the current fiscal." PTI

Fund-raising through IPOs hit over ₹1.01 lakh crore in 9M FY22

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

As many as 44 companies raised total funds of about ₹1,01,500 crore through initial public offerings (IPOs) for nine months ended FY22, and the total subscription stood at over ₹27 lakh crore, according to KPMG's new study titled 'IPOs in India - IPOs during a global pandemic.'

A total of 84 IPOs hit the capital market during FY20 till 9 months of FY22, and 81 IPOs cumulatively raised ₹1,52,400 crore in 9M FY22, FY21 and FY20. The study says the IPOs in FY21 performed better on listing day when compared to the ones in FY20 and FY22(till December 31).

A total of 44 companies that got listed in 9M FY22 witnessed an average of 26.2% with 17 companies returning more than 25% of return.

The study also points out that the equity market in the country have witnessed 44 listings surpassing the total listings in FY21 and FY20, and that this is not surprising given the traction in the capital markets and the positive sentiments driven by the vaccination drives.

FSN E-Commerce Ventures' Nykaa, Paytm, Zomato and PolicyBazaar, among others were listed in 2021.

Primary market activity in FY22 carried the momentum from the second half of FY21 with businesses across the spectrum going public. Retail investors, alongside institutional investors, provided the required amount of liquidity in the market through SIP contributions to asset management firms, KPMG said.

As many as 13 out of the 44 listings in 9M FY22 witnessed negative listing gains with four witnessing double-digit decline. The country's total unicorn count increased by 44 in 2021, with these 44 valued at $94.37 billion. The study says that a few of the prominent unicorn listings in 2021, have witnessed corrections in the range of 30% to 50% compared to their listing prices.

Talking about the Special Purpose Acquisition Company (SPAC) route, as many companies are now using this route, KPMG said that India has already witnessed overseas listing through the SPAC route. Given the traction in the US, more domestic companies will follow suit if it proves to be a viable alternative, it said.

India's gold mine output 1.6 tonnes in 2020: WGC

NEW DELHI: India's gold mine production stood at a mere 1.6 tonnes in 2020 but could rise to 20 tonnes per year in the long-term, World Gold Council said on Thursday.

The World Gold Council (WGC) launched a report titled 'Gold Mining in India', as part of a series of in-depth analysis on the Indian gold market.

The report has highlighted that India has a rich heritage of gold mining, but industry's growth has been hampered by legacy processes and under-investments, WGC said in a statement. "Despite India being one of the world's largest consumers of gold, the mining market operates on a small scale and is not an easy one to enter. In 2020 gold mine production was just 1.6 tonnes.

"India's current resources, when compared to production and resource levels in other countries, could reasonably be expected to support annual output of approximately 20 tonnes per year in the longer-term," the council said. The report lists regulatory challenges, taxation policies, infrastructure as major problem areas.

Somasundaram PR, Regional CEO, India, World Gold Council, said: "Given that India is one of the world's largest gold consuming countries, it makes sense for it to develop mining capacity. But change is needed for this to happen, legacy hurdles must be reduced considerably, and investments encouraged." He noted there have been promising signs in recent years with changes in the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act and introduction of the National Mineral Policy and National Minerals Exploration Policy.

"If this trend continues, India's mine production is expected to increase in the coming years. That said, we see this materialising only over the longer-term as potential investors will, for the foreseeable future, wait to see how successfully the new policies will be implemented and how effective they will be," Somasundaram said. He mentioned that gold mining has the potential to provide significant sustainable socio-economic development for India, not just through investment in exploration and mining for gold, but also through the legacy of training a skilled workforce.

"Furthermore, mining helps to bring infrastructure investment to a region, initiating and supporting associated service industries, many of which often persist long beyond the working life of the mine." PTI

England pacer Wood ruled out of IPL

England fast bowler Mark Wood has been ruled out of the upcoming IPL with an elbow injury. New entrants Lucknow Super Giants had paid ` 7.5 crore for Wood at the IPL auction last month, and now will have to find a replacement to pair with Avesh Khan. The Super Giants will be led by KL Rahul and coached by Andy Flower.

Fledgling pair saves match points, creates history

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

WHEN it comes to making history and rewriting record books, India's badminton stars have been at the very top of the list over the last decade. They had so much success, glory became routine, historic became mundane. Multiple Olympic medals? Check. Ranked world No 1? Check. Winning the most prestigious events? Check. Even in that context, what Treesa Jolly and Gayatri Gopichand achieved on Friday was a first.

They became the first Indian pair to enter the semifinals at All England — a sort of mecca for the sport — after besting the South Korean No 2 seeds, Lee Sohee and Shin Seungchan 14-21, 22-20, 21-15. That they did it after saving two match points further embellishes their feat. While India have had recent history in a good women's doubles (Ashwini Ponnappa and Jwala Gutta won bronze at the Worlds), this run by the fledgling pair of Treesa and Gayatri could potentially add to the country's badminton quiver going forward at a time when it's looking for new blood. That it came on a day when Lakshya Sen advanced to the last four via a walkover means it's a good day for the sport, just 24 hours after losing both Saina Nehwal, PV Sindhu. How did the Treesa/ Gayatri pairing come about and how surprising is this run of theirs? "They came together as a pair just before the first lockdown in 2020," says coach Arun Vishnu, who has court side during their match against the Koreans.

"The main reason why Gopi sir (P Gopichand) and myself decided to pair them together was simple. At the time, there were four girls... Rutuparna (Panda), Tanisha (Crasto), Gayatri and Treesa. Considering Treesa and Rutuparna hit very hard, Gopi sir suggested to split them" says Vishnu.

CHAMPIONS CHELSEA FACE REAL IN QUARTERFINALS

The draw for the last eight of the Champions League was held on Friday. A brief look at the matches...

LIVERPOOL AND BAYERN FAVOURITES

Liverpool and Bayern will quietly be confident of reaching at least the semifinals where they could face each other for a place in the final. Unai Emery's Villarreal did beat Juventus but a red-hot Bayern, who have perhaps under-punched a touch despite winning a title, know this is another chance to enhance their modern legacy. For Liverpool, the draw is a last opportunity to have another tilt before they potentially start losing members of that famed forward line.

PEP'S TEAM IN LOADED HALF

If Manchester City are to realise their ambition of becoming European champions, it just a got a little bit harder. Diego Simeone's teams are hard to get past. Now? The reward for that is a meeting against one of Real Madrid or defending champions Chelsea, two teams who pride themselves in winning the biggest matches in the continent. Sure, the Londoners are a troubled team off the field but they haven't allowed that to upset their on-field fortunes.

QUARTERFINALS
Benfica vs Liverpool, Villarreal vs Bayern, Chelsea vs Real Madrid, Manchester City vs Atletico.
The first leg will be in the week commencing April 4. The return leg will be in the succeeding week.

IPL 7 DAYS TO GO

Limited arsenal KKR's familiar foe

As Kolkata Knight Riders gear up for the upcoming season under a new captain, Shreyas Iyer, here are a few talking points on how they stack up ahead of 15th edition...

Proven Men

By landing Shreyas Iyer, the captain, at 12.25 crore, Pat Cummins (7.25 cr) and Nitish Rana (8 cr), Kolkata ensured they signed proven IPL performers, which is an essential tool for success. That was an impressive buy for a team that had already retained Andre Russell, Varun Chakravarthy, Venkatesh Iyer and Sunil Narine, which makes seven quality individuals in the playing XI. However, splurging heavily on the trio also meant that they had to compromise in other areas, which could decide where they finish.

Needing attention

In modern-day cricket, where wicketkeepers-batters are one of the first picks in the XI, Kolkata are not blessed in the department this season. Sam Billings might be their number one man behind the stumps, but one may not associate him in the bracket of Rishabh Pant, Jos Buttler, Ishan Kishan etc. Also fielding him would mean only three more foreigners slot left in the XI. So, will they instead play Sheldon Jackson to field another overseas player? Even the pace department is a slight concern with Pat Cummins being the only standout bowler. If the Australian fails to deliver his A game, the likes of Shivam Mavi, Tim Southee and Umesh Yadav will be under pressure.

What to expect?

Shreyas' ambitions to lead a team has been fulfilled by Kolkata. Now, he has to prove the management's decision right by going all the way. He is blessed to possess a team, which still has the same core from last season. If Kolkata, who possess several genuine match-winners in the form of Russell, Narine and both the Iyers come to the party, they could turn out to be a contender.

India vs ODI juggernauts

Five years since the epic semifinal, teams look to take fresh guard

GOMESH S @ Chennai

IN many ways, the 2017 World Cup semifinal was as much a turning point in Australian cricket as it was for India. After dominating the world for over a decade — despite the small slump in 2009-10 — the defeat was an eyeopener for them. They had to take a hard look in the mirror, make structural changes and rebrand themselves.

Five years on, that is exactly what they have done. After clinching two T20 World Cups, they took it up further in the ODIs, losing just two matches in 37 since Harmanpreet Kaur's 171 that put them out of the World Cup in 2017. They have created a pool of 30-odd players, and anyone can just walk into the XI and win matches.

Australia had become world beaters again. They are this ODI juggernaut who are steamrolling every team that's coming their way in the tournament so far with one player or the other putting their hands up. As they take on India in a World Cup, yet again, the scars of 2017 have worn off.

At least that is what head coach Matthew Mott said. "Well, for us it's a non-event internally," he said in the pre-match conference on Friday. "We're just looking forward to another match. Everyone seems to be beating everyone at the moment. So to get out in front with another win would be a huge advantage and then we can sort of dictate our own terms on the finals," he said.

India captain Mithali Raj | AFP

Despite losing two of their four matches, India, too, are no different in this regard. Although they have as many as seven players from the previous edition, a large part of the squad are younger players, who haven't been through the heartbreak of 2017. In fact, more than the epic semifinal, India are keen on taking confidence from how they ended Australia's 26-match winning streak last year.

"Everyone knows what has happened in 2017 but I think it's better that we don't really think about it," said Smriti Mandhana before adding, "more than 2017, we definitely had a word about how we went about in the series against Australia when we were touring Australia and the kind of cricket we played there and the kind of bowling we did there. So I think that's something which we have had discussions around and that's something which has given a lot of confidence to all the players."

One of the concerns for India though would be the form of skipper Mithali Raj, whose scores in the tournament read 9, 31 , 5, & 1. Raj, who has been a prolific run-scorer for the side, would want to be at her best for the big game.

Apart from the fact that these are two highly competitive teams, external factors like the ground dimensions of Eden Park, Auckland, and weather — 80 percent possibility of rain — might have a role on the kind of teams they field and approach they take. Both sides are ready with plans A, B & C, and it will all come down to execution under pressure as it has been the case between these two in recent years. And India are probably the one team that could potentially outplay this Australian side. Which is why, on Saturday, it will be all about who blinks first.

Mukund goes down to Maks in SKME Open quarters

ENS/AGENCIES @ Bengaluru

SASIKUMAR Mukund was knocked out of the SKME ITF Open as he lost to Maks Kasnikowski of Poland 6-7 (5), 7-6 (5), 6-3 in the quarterfinals here on Friday. The Polish player will meet fifth seed Arjun Khade in the semifinals as the latter defeated Digvijay Pratap Singh 7-5, 5-7, 7-6 (2).

In the other quarterfinal clashes, fourth seed Manish Sureshkumar overcame eighth seed Englishman Julian Cash (GBR) with a 6-7 (5), 6-4, 6-3 victory to set up a semifinal against second seed Sidharth Rawat who brushed aside the challenge of seventh seed Niki Poonacha in straight sets 6-2, 6-4.

As many as three Indians figure in the singles semifinals while an Indian is assured of the doubles title after the all Indian pair of second seeded Sasikumar Mukund and Vishnu Vardhan beat fellow Indians Yuki Bhambri and Saketh Myneni 6-3, 2-6, 10-8 while top seeds Khade and Julian Cash downed the fourth seeded duo of Frenchman Constantin Bittoun Kouzmine and SD Prajwal Dev of India 6-3, 6-2 in the semifinals.

Bharatanatyam dancer and actor Sowmya Jaganmurthy, who recently made her Tamil debut in the movie Kuthiraivaal, a psychological fantasy thriller, speaks to CE about why she picked an unusual genre, her equation with husband and filmmaker Pawan Kumar, and more

TWIST TO THE TALE

MONIKA MONALISA

A Bharatanatyam dancer, actor, and film producer, Sowmya Jaganmurthy is all of this and more. Jaganmurthy recently made her Tamil debut with the movie Kuthiraivaal, a psychological fantasy thriller, which released on March 18. The movie revolves around a bizarre dream where the person 'sees' a horse without a tail and eventually wakes up to find that he has grown a horse's tail.

Though Jaganmurthy finished shooting in 2017, it took a long time for the movie to hit theatres. Not commercial material, she feels the movie is not one that will pull people to the theatres immediately. "It is a philosophical, psychological, magical realism movie. That's what I would like to call it," laughs Jaganmurthy. The movie has two directors – Manoj Leonel Jason and Shyam Sunder... Jaganmurthy mostly worked with Sunder. "I took around two days to understand the movie because there are so many layers to it. We took things really slow to get a hang of the roles I am playing," says Jaganmurthy, who portrays three characters across all ages — a young girl, a middle-aged woman and an elderly lady in the movie.

Coming from a dance background helped her approach the roles. "In dance, a character's costume and make up is given a lot of importance, which we've done in this film too," she explains.

Due to the pandemic, the release date of the movie was constantly getting pushed, but it did make it to various film festivals, including the Jio MAMI Mumbai Film Festival. However, her super active personal life kind of kept her so busy that she didn't have time to worry about the delay in the film's release.

One look at her social media account and you'll find that it is mostly her fun banter with her filmmaker husband Pawan Kumar. But having been so close to the movie industry, she deliberately tries to keep her distance by associating herself with meaningful content. "The script has to speak with me if I have to be a part of it. I choose them selectively. Not that I have a lot of them spread across, but I must enjoy whatever I take up," says the actor.

> The script has to speak with me if I have to be a part of it. I choose them selectively. Not that I have a lot of them spread across, but I must enjoy whatever I take up
> Sowmya Jaganmurthy, actor

Apart from the stage and screen, Jaganmurthy recently tried her hand at farming. But while trying out many things, she had made sure to 'maintain her sanity'. Her takeaway from attempting to find that one thing that interests her is: Take life with a pinch of salt. "I don't think I take anything seriously. I never go to bed holding a grudge," says Jaganmurthy.

FIT BIT

URDHVA HASTA HANUMANASANA

(POSE DEDICATED TO HANUMAN)

Traditionally, this asana is believed to stimulate both the Muladhara (root) and Svadhisthana (spleen or sacral) chakras. While Muladharachakra provides inner stability needed for personal growth, the Svadhisthana is the centre of creativity, pleasure and enjoyment, which promotes focus, productivity and acceptance. This asana symbolises taking a leap of faith like Hanuman did in service to Lord Rama. Perform in the presence of a yoga expert.

STEPS
- Stand on your knees with sitting bones off the floor. Engage your Mula bandha, Uddhiyana bandha, and Ujjayi breathing.
- Exhale and bring your right foot into a lunge. Keep your right knee on top of your right ankle and your left knee under your left hip.
- Inhale as you slide your right foot out to the front, lifting your right toes off the floor, until your right leg is straight.
- Inhale, stretch your arms up. Exhale as you hinge forward from your hips, bring your palms to the floor.
- Exhale, start sliding your right foot front and your left leg, coming into a full vertical split. Keep your hips square by pulling your right hip back and your left hip forward.
- Inhale and extend both your arms up to the sky. Exhale as you deepen the backbend by letting your head roll back and your arms reach in the direction of your back foot.
- Hold the pose for 30 to 90 seconds. Inhale as you release. Exhale, place your palms to the floor, inside of the right leg, swing your right leg back and bring your right knee to the floor.

KINDRED SOULS AND SISTERS

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

IT'S mid-March already and the clever Shakespearean soul who said 'beware the Ides of March' definitely knew his onions! Our fickle minds just needed alternate inputs to break our sense of ennui. Predictably enough, the war raging in Uzbekistan was put on the back burner as movies and television took over our intellectual space. Our discussions ranged from the admirable portrayal of a street-walker by a young actress to a reality show run by a tough and notorious tele-Moghul, who has made herself a 'zillionaire' by portraying women as weeping willows or vipers in her serials. And we, the gullible, are hooked!

Serious and polarised discussions are afoot about a latest movie depicting a virtual holocaust in the northern state of our country. I find debating healthy, as we must be able to do so fearlessly in a democracy. It's when the 'slimy powers to be' with an agenda to hijack a healthy dialogue, peppering the narrative with anger and feelings of revenge step in, that we know that we are doomed. I come from a mixed gene pool where my father belonged to the Armed Forces, where a person's religious, social and demographic leaning had no place in our acceptance of them. When my father and his regiment ended up throwing rocks at the enemy because they were out of bullets, no one questioned their antecedents, did they?

So, when good friend Aslam Gafoor, GM of Luxury Dining, invited us to a very special pan-Asian feast at the Sheraton Grand, I was ready for a change of scene. It was a fabulously curated dinner, in an idyllic setting by the pool-side and the table décor included beautiful white flowers. Our table was full of discerning guests and a sommelier curated cocktails with each course. The icing on the cake was that the evening was dedicated to women! We were served (very ably) by women maître d'hôtels and the celebrity chef was a lovely Thai lady, Rungtiwa Sorlae! Purrrfect!

March is a tenuous month and somehow, without wanting to sound superstitious, this month allows for ill-health and accidents. A couple of misfortunes have dogged my good friends and family. When it happens three times in a row, one is inclined to believe that someone out there is sticking needles into a doll like replica!

Good friend Sarayu Hegde, who is the epitome of all things stylish, displayed big brand apparel and accessories in a swish part of town. I think it's the Cardi-V effect! By the time I hit her place (after my Marchesque whammy of contracting fever the day before), everything was sold out! Well! A flute of champagne made all the difference!

Meeting with my soeur d'âme always lifts my spirits. So an IndChin lunch at Mahjong Room was a perfect venue for an intimate soiree. Again, an eclectic group of powerhouses coming from different walks of life and meeting up to celebrate friendship is terribly empowering. Over lunch of achingly familiar Chinese food, great cocktails (just one or two, we are working girls!), and hurried exits after a cup of filter coffee, we bid our goodbyes promising to meet up same time next month.

Some souls just understand each other.

DINING WITHIN DOMES

Food lovers in the city are now opening up to this new experience that restaurants are offering

ANILA KURIAN

INNOVATION is the name of the game. And Bengaluru seems to be acing it. Bengalureans who are looking for a different experience can now dine within domes. With social distancing having been the buzz word over the last two years, this new style seems to serve the purpose as well as provide privacy to those looking for it. Going with the trend are The Dome Cafe and The Shangri-La Hotel.

Opened just a few weeks ago, Shangri-La has launched a luxury dome perched on the 19th floor called Dine at Dome. Set in a private dining bubble with themed decor and the view of Bengaluru's skyline, the themes used are Indian, Asian and European. To amplify the moment, each dome comes with a personal butler and music system. Ashok Bandaru, executive chef, explains, "The exclusivity of Dine at Home lends us to create handpicked delicacies. The sky-high dining address is ideal for celebrations like birthdays, anniversaries, family gatherings and friendly reunions."

For afternoon tea, the menu includes items like chocolate-inspired bites, Jalapeño Arancini, and Avocado Sushi, among others. For dinner, there's a curated selection of flavours, categorised into Japanese, Western and Indian. Preserving the Japanese dining ethos, the degustation menu includes Hassun and Zensai Mori morsels, Yakimono grills, assorted Sushi and soups. The Indian table has chaats, Tandoor Kebabs, Lagan Ki Biryani Pots and breads. Then there's other western selections like Pears & Beets Salad, Champignon Soup, Veggie Mille Feuille, Butter-poached Sea Bass and Chicken Roulade, among others. Prices start at ₹2,500 ++ for one, exclusive of booking charges.

The Dome Cafe, on the other hand, which started in 2020, has five outlets across the city, — Yelahanka, Nagarbhavi, Kanakapura, New BEL Road and Koramangala. Nanesh Gowda, managing director, says, "They are all roof-top restaurants and about three domes are set up in each place (except Nagarbhavi which has five domes). It allows people to have a private set-up while enjoying the city's skyline but also allows them to feel like they are part of the crowd as the outdoor seating for other guests are also located on the same floor."

Walk-ins, however, are not available. "The booking has to be done one week in advance so we can get everything set up. Apart from romantic dates, we see more people making bookings for birthday parties. About 8-9 people can sit inside the dome," Gowda explains.

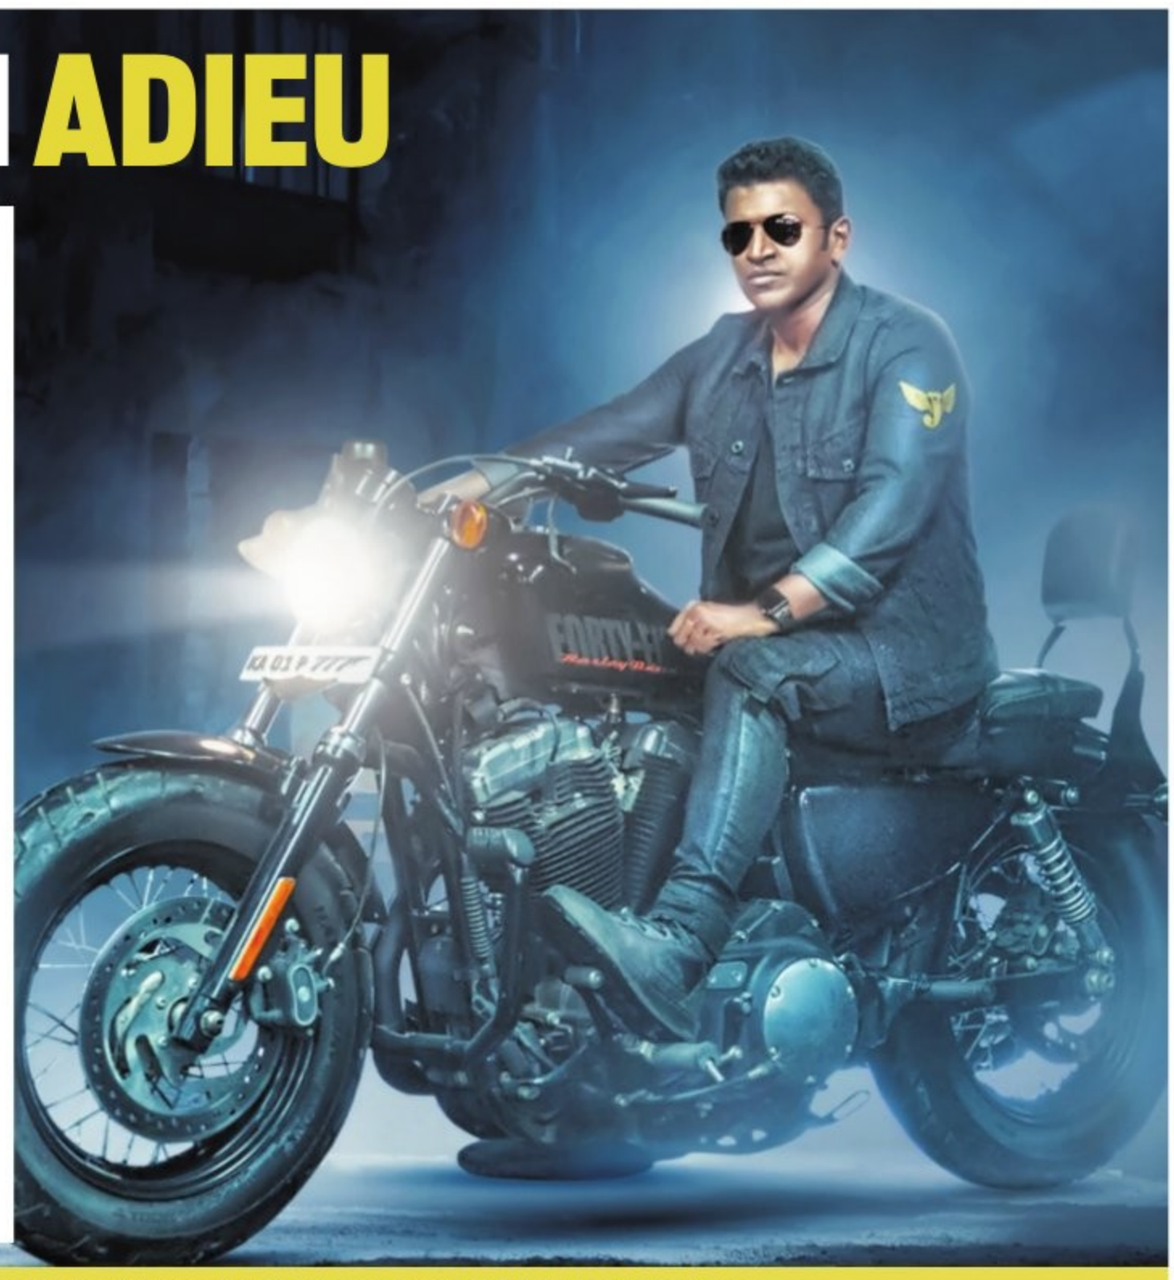
AN ABSOLUTE ACTION ADIEU



A SHARADHAA

IT is said that all sorrows can be accepted if you put them into a story or tell a story about them. In a certain way, James tells the story of Appu, who won the hearts of fans not just in Sandalwood but beyond too. James will always have a profound place for the lingering sadness in the minds of many because this is the last time we would see the talented young actor on the silver screen.

James features the late Puneeth Rajkumar as the quintessential hero, a courageous saviour, a patriot, and a romantic. These are characters that Appu has showcased many times in his previous films, and seeing it all come together in a single film would be the stuff of dreams for his fans and the Kannada audience. The importance of the film gains more prominence when viewed from the perspective that he is no more around. It is quite the emotional ride for the fans who get to see their matinee idol provide them with one final treat with a commercial outing.

The film begins with a title song, and syndicates from different parts of the world running illegal businesses are introduced. Santhosh (Puneeth Rajkumar) runs a security agency and takes up an assignment of providing security to top businessman Vijay Gayakwad (Srikanth Meka) and his family. He takes Gayakwad into confidence and the businessman even treats Santhosh as family. However, the twist comes when Santhosh's true identity is revealed. What is his purpose? What is the intention behind the title James? Why did a soldier quit his job to run a security agency? The answers to these questions make up the second half that ends up becoming a revenge drama.

While the first half breezes through with action and a dash of humour, the real challenge for director Chethan Kumar lies in the second half, but he cleverly manages to fill all gaps. Puneeth, who makes his presence felt in every scene, as a stylish mass hero and has pulled off some gripping high-adrenaline-action sequences. Although Shivarajkumar's voice for him initially seems uncomfortable, it does grow on us. Chethan has also managed to bring all three brothers in one film, with Shivarajkumar and Raghavendra Rajkumar appearing in significant cameo roles.

RATING 3.5/5

James is lavish and comes with rich production qualities, but one drawback is the cliched plot of the drug mafia. Also, there are too many villains in the film, all played by well-known actors like Sarathkumar, Srikanth Meka, Adithya, Mukesh Rishi, Madhusudan Rao, and the list goes on. The importance of the heroine, Priya Anand, is felt in the climax. Anu Prabhakar has a very short but sweet presence. Rangayana Raghu shares a good screen space along with Puneeth, and good support comes from an ensemble cast -- Tilak, Harisha, Shine Shetty, Chikanna, Nayana, Samiksha, and Kavya Shastry among others. The film also sees a cameo appearance by Chandan Shetty, Rachita Ram, Ashika Ranganath, and Sreeleela in the introduction song.

Apart from direction, Chethan has also written screenplay, dialogues, and lyrics, dialogues, and lyrics, penning some punch lines delivered by the actor. Charan Raj, who did not have an opportunity to tune in too many songs, has come up with a couple of good melodies, and an interesting background score. J Swamy had a hectic job capturing the right emotions in the drama, and his work in the film is definitely worthy of applause. Credit should also go to stunt masters -- brothers Ram Laxman, Ravi Varma, Vijay, Arjun and Chethan D Souza, who have chalked out enough high-octane-action sequences with the Power Star.

All in all, James definitely is a worthy tribute to the Power Star, and when the final credits roll, and we see Puneeth give us his much-loved smile, it brings a tear to our eyes. Farewell, Appu... you will always be missed.

Yuvaan Dev makes his acting debut with titular role in Dandi

The film, directed by award-winning director Vishal Raaj, is all set to hit the theatres on April 8

CE FEATURES

YUVAAN DEV is a new talent marking his debut as an actor in Sandalwood and he will be seen in the titular role in Dandi. Directed by Vishal Raaj, the film is a historical drama based on a novel written by Dr. Rajashekharayya Mathapati (Ragam). The film is highly inspired by the important events of the Indian Independence movement between 1904 and 194. It narrates the story of Coastal Karnataka and its involvement in the historical Dandi March.

Yuvaan Dev

Yuvaan Dev is happy to begin his acting career with such an experimental film, says the debutant. "Cinema is a learning medium. So, a story like Dandi will surely have a big impact on the audience. Gandhiji started a Dandi moment, i.e. salt march (January 26, 1930). Inspired by it, the people of Karnataka repeated the same moment at Ankole on April 13, 1930, and caught the attention of the entire nation. The film deals with this movement and the youth's contribution to the freedom fight."

Vishal Raaj, the award-winning director, who has directed feature films like Minchu, Ingale Maarga, Savithri Bai Phule, July 22, 1947, will be wielding the megaphone for Dandi. The film, backed by S C Usha Rani, has music by Ramesh Krishna and camerawork by Venkatesh R. Dandi also marks the debut of Shalini Bhat and has well-known actors like Tara and Suchendra Prasad in pivotal roles.

FUN IN PARTS, BUT NOT A PATCH ON JIGARTHANDA

Akshay Kumar breezes through an assembly-line remake with Bachchhan Paandey

SHILAJIT MITRA

THE shine hasn't faded on Jigarthanda. Released in 2014, Karthik Subbaraj's second feature was a joyous ode to filmmaking. Its object of affection was gangster cinema—its giddiness, its exuberance. None of these emotions emerge convincingly in Bachchhan Paandey. Yes, the remake, directed by Farhad Samji and shifted to North India, has gangsters, filmmakers, and eccentric acting teachers. But it's missing a crucial character: a love for film.

Consider Myra (Kriti Sanon), our protagonist. An aspiring filmmaker in Mumbai, she's fired from an assistant directing gig after bruising the director's ego. It's hard to gauge if Myra is genuinely in love with the movies. Her father, a forgotten set hand, tells her to follow her heart, but she appears pressured by circumstance. Her short film shows a woman on a beach; her debut script is about an activist. A producer, possibly sensing a lack of vision, asks for something commercial. Eventually, Myra furnishes a subject: gangster Bachchan Pandey (Akshay Kumar).

Bachchan is surly, toothy, bearded, and strange. He's a killer of Baghwa, in the 'interior of India', where Myra reaches to document him from afar. Her local friend, Vishu (Arshad Warsi), agrees to help her out, despite mounting evidence of Bachchan's villainy. Or instability. In an early scene, for instance, Bachchan immolates a reporter, not for printing hard truths about him, but because he was made 'into a cartoon'. Elsewhere, he crashes a wedding and extricates the bride with his dancing. Such a gifted hood... with a kill count of 42.

RATING 2.5/5

It's useful, at this point, to invoke 'Assault' Sethu. In Subbaraj's original Tamil film, Bobby Simha played the colourful gangster with a bumbling charm. It was a fun, knowing performance, allowing the film's lens to demystify Sethu and reveal the edges. Akshay's Bachchan, by contrast, is any Hindi film's idea of a movie gangster. He's given song after song, action sequence after action sequence. He is clearly the hero—which is why, when Myra is caught and forced to cast Bachchan in his own biopic, there's no surprise.

BACHCHHAN PAANDEY

Cast: Akshay Kumar, Kriti Sanon, Arshad Warsi, Jacqueline Fernandez, Pankaj Tripathi, Abhimanyu Singh

Director: Farhad Samji

The film works best when it sticks to the source. The pre-interval sequence where a mole is cornered and killed is neatly executed. References to Nayakan and Thalapathi are culturally translated to 'Satya, Sarkar, Gangs of Wasseypur'. Pankaj Tripathi fills the (very large) shoes of Guru Somasundaram. However, as the film progresses, it loses its sense of fun. Bachchan's origin story is a slab of old Bollywood—complete with ropewalking ex-lovers in melas. It evokes neither irony nor nostalgia; story writer Sajid Nadiadwala probably thinks it a convenient plot solution in 2022.

Winks to Akshay's filmography are strewn throughout. A sample from Teri Ore plays, and, at one point, he calls himself 'Jaanwar', one of his better gangster roles. The title itself, Bachchan Paandey, is drawn from his Tashan character. The best nod, to my mind, comes near the end when Bachchan is given the Best Comic Actor award. He looks pleasantly surprised, as Akshay must have been in the 2000s after a slew of comic hits.
